NORTHCLIFFE, THE ENGLISH PUBICIST, DIES AT 57

Death, Indicated for Last Week in Bulletins From Bedside, Said to Have Been Caused by Heart Affection—Viscount Became Ill After World Tour.

DEEP IMPRESSION
MADE IN EMPIRE

Publisher, Born in Ireland, Achieved Rank as Foremost Journalist—Raised Lloyd George to Power,
Later Agreeing With Him
Only on Irish Policy.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 14.—Viscount Northcliffe, noted publicist, died
this morning. News of Lord North-cliffe's death was given out by the doctors who have been attending him in this bulletin:

"Viscount Northcliffe died at 10:15 o'clock. The end was perfectly peaceful."

The medical terms used in giving the cause of Lord Northcliffe's death were indicative of endocarditis, streptococcal septicemia and terminal ap-ople.

This in popular parlance means an inflammation of the lining membrane of the heart, with consequent infection of the blood, and sudden failure of the heart, due to fainting.

Later it was said the cause of Lord Northcliffe's death was suppuration, or the production of pus
within the heart, which was followed by acute blood poisoning.

The death of no other unofficial person could have made a deeper impression in England than that of Lord Northcliffe. The news was not a surprise, as the bulletin issued by the doctors for the last week plainly indicated their patient was dying.

Lord Northcliffe was by far the most noted figure in British journalism, and the first question on every man's lips was as to what effect his death will have on the policies of the Times and his other newspapers, which since the end of the war have strongly opposed the Lloyd George administration and its principles.

With the notable exception of its dealings with Ireland, which Northcliffe press supported throughout.

As far back as 30 years ago, the London World spoke of him as one who "may fairly claim to be classed among those who have achieved greatness. He was neither born to it, nor has he had it thrust upon him. He has been very largely the architect of his own fortunes."

With the possible exception of Lloyd George, whom Northcliffe ruled to power with his own hands,
no man in England was at once so much reviled and admired. He was of one character as a jingo and a scandal monger and as the savior of the empire. Certainly it is true that he wielded more power than any other man had in the cabinet.

Born in Ireland,
Lord Northcliffe was born July 15, 1864, in County Dublin, Ireland, the second son of an English barrister and his Irish wife. He was educated for the legal profession, but before it came time for him to practice, he took up newspaper work.

"I always had a predilection for newspaper work," he said to a reporter, when he made his first visit to America in 1900. "One of the sweetest toys of my childhood days was a miniature printing press. At 14 I was editing a school newspaper, and two years later, having abandoned the idea of following in my father's footsteps, I embarked upon

$20,000 BOND FOR MAN WHOSE CAR KILLED GIRL

Floyd Collenberger Held on Verdict of Homicide After Death of Velma Schubert.

Floyd Collenberger of 3909 North Market street, a showman, was held under $20,000 bond today on a verdict of homicide returned by a Coroner's jury in the case of Velma
Schubert, 10 years old, of 5359 Arsenal street, who was killed when Collenberger's automobile struck her and four other members of her family as they were about to board a Cherokee street car in front of 5107
Gravois avenue, at 9:15 p. m. Saturday.

Deputy Coroner Dever said that the bond was the highest ever fixed here in an automobile case, and that the amount was due to the flagrancy of the case. Collenberger made no statement at the inquest, on advice of counsel. He was arrested in the vicinity of the accident.

Velma was with her parents, Mr.
and Mrs. Fred Schubert; her sister,
Gladys, 11, and brother, Peter, 7.
Schubert is a city fireman attached to engine company No. 55. They had been visiting friends at 5107 Gravois avenue. The motorman of the Cherokee car and two other witnesses testified that the car was running slowly, to stop for the group to board, and that the machine suddenly passed the street car and went through the family group, throwing the parents and children in various directions.

Two witnesses agreed that the machine was driven at a rate of about 35 miles an hour. One of them said that no attempt was made to slacken its speed and that the horn was not sounded. The machine skidded around the corner of Rosa avenue and stopped against a tree on the west curb.

Velma was killed instantly. Her parents, sister and brother were all hurt and were taken to the city hospital.

ANTHRACITE MEN WILLING TO START MINES AT OLD PAY

Spokesman for Them So Notifies Lewis, Miners' Chief; Commission Would Investigate Situation.

PREDICTIONS OF END OF SOFT COAL STRIKE

No Progress, However, on Disputed Point of Compulsory Arbitration Between Lewis and Owners.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Samuel
D. Warriner, president of the Lehigh
Coal and Navigation Co. and spokesman for the anthracite coal operators, announced today that he had notified John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers that the mine owners were willing to resume operations in the hard coal fields at the old wage scale pending the appointment of a commission to investigate the situation. Warriner said he had telegraphed Lewis last night suggesting that a conference of anthracite operators and representatives of the miners be held in this city Wednesday.

Warriner's action followed a conference yesterday with United States Senator George Wharton Pepper,
Gov. Spruill, W. J. Richards, president of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Co., and William A.
Glasgow Jr., counsel for the United Mine workers.

At this meeting, it became known that Senator Pepper read a letter from President Harding in which the President declared that further delay in the resumption of mining would mean "danger of nothing short of national disaster."

The President said that no time
was to be lost in getting the mine
back in the mines and that if mining was resumed at once "the future consequences of past delays must necessarily be serious. But there is any further delay we shall be in danger of nothing short of national disaster."

President Harding suggested that the operators take the men back at the wage scale in effect on March 31, 1922, when the suspension began,
"until a commission or other agency has had an opportunity to examine the whole situation."

Warriner, in his telegram to Lewis, said that the operators had been moved to extend the invitation for a conference, "not merely by our own desire, but because the President of the United States has communicated an expression both of his wishes that we should do so and of his hope that you will accept."

Soft Coal Joint Conference Said to Be Near a Showdown.
By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 14.—After a week spent in preliminary conferences of miners and soft coal operators controlling an annual production of 40,000,000 tons, today was near a showdown in its negotiations for peace.

President John L. Lewis of the miners was optimistic as to the peace possibilities of both conferences, expected the end of the soft coal parley to come by tomorrow evening.
Some operators also forecast opening of some mines on Wednesday.

The soft coal men, however, were stranded over the question of compulsory arbitration of future settlements. Lewis had declared the union's unalterable opposition to arbitration and Michael Gallagher, heading the operators, was holding out for a commission of broad powers, including that necessary to enforce its decisions.

When the joint subscale committee met, its members were informed that no agreement had been made by Lewis and Gallagher. Both leaders have refused to be moved from their opposing stands as to compulsory arbitration.

The miners withdrew from the subcommittee meeting soon after the disagreement had been reported. The operators, however, continued in session, until 1 o'clock with some of them, plainly stating that they did not want the conference here to fail
on account of the arbitration proposal. President Lewis and the miners were asked to meet with the operators in the afternoon to consider a settlement with those operators not insisting on arbitration for the future.

Quite Brazilian Commission.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—John
H. Kirby of Houston, Tex., today tendered his resignation to President Harding as a member of the Brazilian Centennial Commission. He said he would be unable to go to Rio de Janeiro on account of business affairs.

MRS. HARDING GIVES $100 TO OWNER OF HORSE 51 YEARS OLD

"Deeply Moved by Your Sacrifice for Animal," She Writes to Preacher.

By the Associated Press.
CATAWISSA, Pa., Aug. 14.—Mrs.
Warren G. Harding has presented a check for $100 to "Clover," a 51-year-old horse. This became known yesterday with the publication of a letter from the President's wife to the animal's owner, the Rev. Dr.
Myers, in which she expressed her self deeply moved by "the sense of justice and gratitude and faithfulness which impels you to sacrifice
your comfort and even your health to attain wealth which has given you
a long life of willing service."

"It seems a strange ingratitude,"
the letter continues, "that demands such a sacrifice because the most and to attain wealth has not made a cruel and inconsiderate master of you."

"For example's sake, I hope 'Clover' will long continue to be the oldest horse in the world and that somehow there will grow an impression that the loving God never intended either dumb friend or self-sacrificing men to be consigned to mother earth merely because the most and best of her strength has been exhausted in human service."

ONLY ESSENTIAL INDUSTRIES HERE TO RECEIVE COAL

Refrigerating Plants, Hospitals,
Left on List.

The St. Louis fuel committee today directed that no more coal be distributed in St. Louis by retail dealers except to essential industries.
Those left on the list to receive coal
are refrigerating plants, hospitals,
bakeries and laundries.

"There is no further distribution of coal to households or office buildings," said Edgar Gengenbach,
secretary of the committee, representing the Chamber of Commerce.
"We must ask for co-operation from the people in not storing coal for the time being. All the available supply is needed by the essential consumers."

A telegram was sent recently to
H. F. Spencer of the Federal Fuel Administration at Washington, requesting a shipment to St. Louis of coal at once from 150 to 200 cars of coal. The orders of city committees ordinarily go first to the State committee, but this order was sent direct because of the "emergency in St. Louis," Gengenbach said.

Nelson Cunliff, chairman of the local committee, said: "The crisis is upon us. We are not receiving too much coal at present. The reserve supply is nearly exhausted."

CENTRAL TRADES UNION CALLS FOR NATION-WIDE LABOR STRIKE

Resolution, Introduced by Head of Iron Molders' Local, Passed at Meeting Yesterday.

The American Federation of Labor
was asked to call a nation-wide strike of all organized labor in a resolution adopted yesterday by the Central Trades and Labor Union at 2228 Olive street.

The resolution was introduced by Charles Blome, president of the Iron Molders' Local No. 53, who presided
last week at a meeting addressed by William Z. Foster, noted radical and organizer of the 1919 steel strike, who advocates syndicalism. Similar resolutions were passed in Omaha
following a recent address of Foster
there.

Another resolution introduced by William J. Fitzmaurice of the machinists' local called upon President Harding for an investigation of railroad protection. Shots were exchanged and he and two of the strikers
fell down. The others drove away. Mrs.
Arnold said that one of the men hit
her husband with a piece of "loaded" rubber hose, first. It was found on the ground there. Arnold suffered bullet wounds near the heart and in the chest and abdomen. He was unable to make a definite statement.

Short time after the shooting
Benish, Callahan and Venable arrived at the St. Louis city hospital in a taxicab. They were placed under arrest and Benish taken to a police station, where, several hours later, he confessed. He repeated his statement to a Post-Dispatch reporter and signed a written confession at East St. Louis Police Headquarters.

Benish named the Lewis brothers
as the other men in the party and that they were arrested at their homes during the night. They refused to go to East St. Louis without requisition from the St. Louis Police Department. Benish said he and Venable had worked, before the strike, at the St. Louis shops of the American Refrigerator Transit Co., which operated a refrigerator car yard, and the Lewis brothers, he thought, for the Terminal Railroad.

"Planned to 'trim' him,"
he said they planned to give Arnold "a trimming" that would keep him from work for at least two weeks and thus tie up the services of 15 men. He called Arnold and his helpers "scabers," a term which he made synonymous with "strike-breaker."

Benish said that when they arrived at Arnold's garage he called to Arnold to come out; that Callahan and Venable followed him to the garage and that they then

RAILROAD FOREMAN DIES OF WOUNDS AT STRIKERS' HANDS

A. E. Arnold, 43, Was Attacked on East Side by Five Men Saturday, One of Whom He Killed.

ONE ASSAILANT
SERIOUSLY WOUNDED

Murder Warrants Against Him and Remaining Three Sought by East St. Louis
Police Chief.

A. E. Arnold, 43 years old, a foreman for the Terminal Railroad, died
at St. Mary's Hospital, East St.
Louis, at 8:40 a. m. today from bullet wounds suffered Saturday afternoon when five striking railroad shopmen attacked him at the rear of his home, 504 North Forty-third street, East St. Louis, "to give him a trimming" because he had continued at work during the strike.

Chief of Police Mulconner of East St. Louis announced today that he would apply for murder warrants against four St. Louisians who were in the attacking party, one of whom was shot and seriously wounded by Arnold. The fifth was fatally shot in Arnold's attempt at self-defense.

Release Efforts Reported.
The East St. Louis police heard that railroad men in St. Louis were planning to obtain the release of three of the men under writs of habeas corpus. They have asked the St. Louis police to hold them under arrest. The fourth prisoner waived extradition and was taken to St. Louis, where he was confined and implicated his companions. The three who are in St. Louis have refused to make statements.

The five strikers were Hosea Venable, 40, of 351 South Tenth street,
who died at the city hospital at 9
p. m. Saturday from a bullet wound in the abdomen; James Callahan, 28,
of 7128 Idaho avenue, who also suffered a bullet wound in the abdomen and is in a serious condition at the city hospital; Fred Benish, 31,
of 2114 De Kalb street, who confessed that the party had come to give Arnold "a beating," George (Judge)
Lewis, 30, of 2103 Chippewa street,
and his brother, Walter Lewis, 33,
of 3827 A Avenue.

Arnold, who was night foreman at the Terminal Railroad roundhouse at Brooklyn, Ill., but who was in charge of a force of 14 men in the fourteenth street yards, St. Louis, during the strike of shopmen, was starting for a drive with his wife and two daughters, 13 and 15 years old, between 4 and 4:30 p. m. Saturday. Mrs. Arnold and the girls were in his automobile, in the garage,
and he was about to get in, when his assault was made.

Shots Were Exchanged.
After one of the party attacked
Arnold, the foreman ran to the machine for the .45-caliber automatic pistol he had been carrying for self-protection. Shots were exchanged and he and two of the strikers fell down. The others drove away. Mrs.
Arnold said that one of the men hit
her husband with a piece of "loaded" rubber hose, first. It was found
on the ground there. Arnold suf-

GOVERNMENT AID FOR MAROONED PASSENGERS OFFERED BY PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.
PRESIDENT HARDING in a telegram last night to Gov.
Campbell of Arizona offered the assistance of the Federal Government to relieve hardships
among passengers on Santa Fe trains marooned at junction points.

The President's telegram follows:

"I am informed that several passenger trains on the Santa Fe Railway are marooned at junction points in your State because of their abandonment by their crews. It is the obligation of the Government to relieve the people who are thus shamefully subjected to hardships. If you have not facilities for the relief
which I know you will gladly bestow, then any forces at the command of the Federal Government will be promptly ordered to your assistance. Kindly advise whether such assistance is needed."

SON OF COCA-COLA CO. FOUNDER IN SUIT OVER $25,000 NOTE

Walter T. Candler Alleges Automobile Man Obtained Instrument
After Champagne.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 14.—Walter
T. Candler, member of the family which founded its fortune on Coca-Cola, today entered suit in the Fulton County Superior Court here to restrain Clyde K. Byfield, owner of an automobile company, from selling and otherwise realizing upon a note for $25,000 which he said he gave Byfield in July while on a steamship bound for France.

Candler declared in his petition that the note was obtained by By-field following a champagne party
on board the steamship Berengaria, July 14, when he wandered into a stateroom where Mrs. Byfield was present. Candler declares he gave Byfield a check which later was exchanged in Paris for the note.

Walter T. Candler is a son of Am Candler, founder of the Coca-Cola company, whose engagement to Mrs.
Onesima de Bouchelle, New Orleans beauty, was announced only a few days ago.

REORGANIZATION PLANS FOR 'KATY' FILED WITH COMMISSION

Interstate Rail Body Asked for Permission for Bond Issue to Take Over O.M. Property.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Plans for the reorganization of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad
now in the hands of receivers were presented today to the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval.
Creation of a new company to be known as the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Co. is proposed and the commission's permission is sought to issue $52,542,000 in 5 per cent prior lien bonds; $27,216,000 in 4 per cent
prior lien bonds; $23,121,000 in 3 per cent prior lien bonds; $57,600,000 in convertible adjustment bonds; $30-000,000 in 7 per cent preferred stock, and one million shares of common stock of no par value.

With receipts from the sale of these securities or by their transfer for stocks and bonds of the old railroad or of subsidiaries of it, the new company intends to acquire all the Katy property, free from other obligations or liabilities.

BARRETT SAYS NONE WHO VOTED IN PRIMARY CAN SIGN PETITION

Opinion Is Blown to Plans of Democrats Who Want Independent Candidate for Senate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 14.—Attorney-General Barrett today held that no voter who participated in the primary of Aug. 1 has a right to sign petitions for the nomination of an independent candidate for United States Senator.

This opinion, given to the St. Louis Election Commissioners, is a serious blow to the plans of Democrats planning to bring out an independent new company. Barrett said, of course, only part of the Democratic voters participated in the primary. Most of the active anti-Reed Democrats
did, however. It may be that proponents of the movement may prefer to test Barrett's ruling in court rather than try to find voters who did not participate in the primary.

LEVY MAYER, ATTORNEY, DIES

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Levy Mayer, prominent attorney who for years has represented some of the nation's biggest interests, was found dead today. He died from heart disease, according to an announcement by relatives, and was found by his valet
this morning when the valet went to awaken him.

Mayer was senior member of the law firm of Mayer, Mayer, Austrian and Platt, with offices here and in New York. He was nationally known through his actions as attorney for the "Big Five" packers and for liquor interests.

PRESIDENT TO MEET RAIL UNION CHIEFS IN NEW STRIKE PARLEY

MORE PASSENGER TRAINS STRANDED; DISORDERS SPREAD

Thousands of Passengers at Albuquerque Appeal to President for Relief; Federal Inquiry Ordered.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—New knots
in railroad transportation of the far west; bombing of a passenger train
loaded with excursionists at Granton Junction, N. J.; dynamiting of a Frisco Railroad bridge at Ash Grove, Mo., and destruction by fire of the Wichita Falls & Southern Railway shops at Wichita Falls, Tex., marked
the early hours of the seventh week
of the shopmen's strike while railway heads and strike leaders were deadlocked over President Harding's proposals for peace.

The walkout of Santa Fe train
crews, who left their trains stranded
in the deserts of California, Arizona and New Mexico, spread to other western lines and as the railroad paralysis crept on to new centers, maintenance of way men in the New York district petitioned their national leaders for a strike order.

Santa Fe officials, manning the stranded trains at Needles, Cal., said that the strike of the Santa Fe
conductors, last night, that the four Railroad Labor Board be permitted to settle the question of seniority
in many quarters it is believed the real key to the situation is held by the four railway brotherhoods.

Although it has been said that the striking shopmen's chiefs had prepared a statement, the fact that this statement had been withheld from publication up to the time of the conference of union leaders remembered this morning, is taken as an indication there still is a possibility
they may reconsider.

There is also some possibility that no decision will be forthcoming
for a day or so and in this connection some significance is attached to the statement of L. E. Shepherd, president of the Order of Railroad Conductors, last night, that the four brotherhood chairmen would continue to act as a Committee of Mediation "until Congress gets back into session."

The chief condition upon which the majority of the railway executives voted acceptance as shown in his statement was that "such acceptance involve no surrender of the principles with respect to seniority adopted by the carriers Aug. 1, 1922," their statement said. There was insistence by the carrier heads
that the Labor Board would pass upon the relative seniority of all employees who remained at work.

The majority acceptance of the executives further provided that striking employees be assigned to their former positions where vacancies exist and that where their former positions have been filled, other employment of the same class be found for them.

A minority resolution providing restoring former positions to employees only where vacancies exist.
When the executives left, the impression remained among them that the strike would be fought out to a finish.

The railroad executives, before leaving Washington, further indicated through an authorized spokesman that they expected the Government would not attempt further compromise in the situation, and made public the text of their answer to President Harding's final settlement proposal.

Union leaders, however, declared that mediation and compromising efforts would still be continued with officials of the four brotherhoods of train men who are acting as a committee to go between the striking shop crafts representatives on the one hand and the Government or the railroads on the other.

J. de Witt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives and a committee of railroad presidents, took the answer of the roads, which showed a divided attitude, to the President Saturday. Then, after both groups had left the White House, maintaining silence as to

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—L. E.
Shepherd, head of the Order of Railroad Conductors, and W. N. Doak,

had been made for another conference late in the day between leaders

The railroad executives having submitted their conditional accep-

parted, and with the Government outwardly marking time, developments today in the railway shop-
men's strike settlement parley lay

TEN HURT WHEN THREE BOMBS HIT TRAIN ON BRIDGE

Injured Treated at North Bergen (N. J.) Hospital; Coaches Were Filled With Week-End Travelers.

SEARCH BEGUN FOR SUSPECTS

Auto With Three Men Reported Beside Tracks Just Before Train Was Due at Scene.

By the Associated Press.

NORTH BERGEN, N. J., Aug. 14.—Three bombs exploded on the West Shore Railroad as it crossed a culvert near Granton Junction last night, shattering the windows of three coaches and injuring 10 persons, officers of the road reported. All were able to leave the hospital here today.

The train, filled with passengers returning home after the week-end holidays, was traveling at a slow rate of speed as the explosion occurred. It was rumbling across the bridge when the entire train was shaken by the three explosions. The passengers were thrown into a panic as they were showered by flying glass.

An ambulance and police reserves were rushed to the scene from here. The police learned that shortly before the West Shore local was due at Granton, an automobile, said to have carried three men, was seen standing by the side of the railroad right of way.

A working crew sent to the scene helped the damaged train into West Shore, where the more seriously injured were given first aid.

The West Shore is a subsidiary of the New York Central Railroad.

Three cars struck Bank. Signals had been set for the local at Granton Junction. The train was crossing the bridge at 10:10 according to the report of a dispatcher at West Shore. The three bombs are said to have struck three cars of the train. The train was stopped on the bridge and the crew alighted. They later said that no one was seen.

Police who reached the scene a few minutes later at once began searching the countryside for suspects. Marks of the bombs could easily be seen on the sides of the three coaches. As the cars were of steel the greatest material damage was caused by the shattering of car windows the entire length of the train. The scene of the bombing was an isolated corner of Hudson County. The high road which parallels the railroad tracks is little used.

Think Three Men Were on Bank. Police believe that the bombers stood on the railroad embankment and hurled their missiles as the train rumbled slowly into the junction. If the surmise of the police is correct, the bomb throwers were less than 50 feet from the train when the bombs were hurled, so close together that the first reports stated that a single explosion had occurred. As the train came to a grinding stop, the coaches echoed with screams of women and the crying of frightened children. All of the windows that were broken are said to have been shattered almost simultaneously with a deafening crash.

When the first report of the bombing reached officers of the West Shore road, detectives were sent from West Shore to aid in running down clues. An examination of the bridge showed that the bombing had in no way damaged the structure.

The police later announced that they were investigating a report that the bombs had been placed on the rails, one of the passengers declaring the explosion occurred beneath the trucks of the cars. The majority of passengers, however, insisted that the bombs had been hurled from a distance.

$1,000,000 Fire in Yards at Portland, Me. PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 14.—Fifteen locomotives of the Maine Central, Boston & Maine and Portland Terminal Co. and a roundhouse were destroyed in a fire here yesterday. The damage is estimated at $1,000,000. The police said that the fire was discovered by Deputy Sheriff on guard, two explosions were heard.

The machine repair shop, airbrake repair shop, water tower, fuel oil plant and part of the turntable also were destroyed. No one was injured.

By the Associated Press. NEWTON, Kan., Aug. 14.—Company F, Newton National Guard Infantry unit, is patrolling the Santa Fe shop area here and everything is quiet following a near riot Saturday night in which eight or 10 Deputy Sheriffs and shop workers were beaten by a crowd of 200 or 300 persons.

Negro Killed at Iron Plant. Joseph Watkins, a negro, 37 years old, of 210 Spruce street, was instantly killed at noon today when he was struck by the boom of an engine, the property of the Mississippi Valley Iron and Steel Co., 600 South Broadway, in a junk yard at 287 East State street. The boom was striking Watkins on the head as a crane was attempting to lift a dragline weighing 800 pounds that had been suspended by the iron company. Watkins was employed in the junk yards.

Text of Statement Issued by Railway Executives' Chairman

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The following statement was issued by T. Dewitt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, following their reply to President Harding on his strike peace plan:

"At the meeting of the railroad executives in New York, on Friday, Aug. 11, 1932, they, with practical unanimity, responded favorably to the President's call that the seniority question be left to the United States Railroad Labor Board.

"Approximately three-quarters of the mileage responded favorably to his call that all striking shopcraftmen be re-employed and the balance be re-employed as far as practicable.

"The resolutions acted on by the meeting have been submitted to the President.

Text of Resolutions.

"The following resolutions were adopted by roads having a mileage of 151,524 miles.

"The telegram of the President dated Aug. 7, 1932, having been considered, and in response to his call to the carriers and the striking workers, the following resolutions were adopted:

"Resolved, That the proposal of the President to the striking workers to return to work and to the carriers to assign them to work, leaving the disputed question of seniority to the Labor Board under the provisions of the Transportation Act for decision be accepted, understanding as we do that such acceptance involves no surrender of the principle with respect to seniority adopted by the carriers on Aug. 1, 1932, but recognizes that the proposal of the President invokes the jurisdiction of the Labor Board under the Transportation Act to pass upon the relative seniority of those loyal employees who have remained at work and those new employees who have since accepted service (the rights of both of which classes to seniority we feel bound in justice to defend before the Labor Board) with the strikers who may enter the service under the proposal of the President.

"Therefore, Be it further resolved:

"(A). All former employees who have not been guilty of proven violence against the employees or property of the railroad shall be assigned to their former positions where vacancies exist.

"(B). Where the positions they formerly filled have been filled other employment of the same class will be found for such employees as have committed no acts of proven violence against employees or the property of the railroad.

"(C). If, after these men have been assigned, questions of seniority arise with them which cannot be settled locally, they will be referred to the United States Railroad Labor Board for review.

"(D). In agreeing to submit questions of seniority as provided above to the United States Railroad Labor Board for review, it is understood that neither the railroads nor the employees shall be deprived of the right to review by the courts of such decisions if they affect agreements in existence between any railroad and its employees."

their purpose, the brotherhood chiefs conferred with the railway executives Saturday night and in the discussions there appeared a proposal to leave the whole seniority question to arbitration by an independent tribunal, while the men went back to work.

Proposition Refused. This proposition was refused and Shepherd declared it had not originated with the brotherhood mediators.

All of the railroad executives went back to the White House yesterday, spent an hour with President Harding, and then left the city. The union chiefs went into conference by themselves, and were informed during it by Secretary Hoover of the action of the executives.

"We are going to remain here awaiting developments," Shepherd said in a verbal statement. "We don't want to do or say anything that may embarrass either side, and we are still hopeful of finding some way out of this situation."

"We are trying to help, and we intend to stay here until Congress convenes, in readiness to respond to any call from President Harding."

"I'd like to call attention to the fact that seniority isn't the only issue before us—there are several other fundamentals. The real issue is the status of men on strike. We hold they are not dismissed, that they have not resigned, that they are awaiting a settlement of difficulties, which have put them temporarily out of service, and that in the meantime their rights are merely suspended."

Cities Precedents. "This applies to their right to strike under the law, the things they have earned by their service, such as their pension and insured status. We consider seniority has been worked overtime—by the railroads. Always in railroad disputes the men have gone back with seniority status, and there is no reason why this should not be the policy now. I am saying this not for myself, but expressing the entire theory of labor organization."

The railroads' position—as outlined by a spokesman of the railroad presidents—conflicted with Shepherd's expression at all points. The railroads, though divided on the terms of their acceptance it was asserted, hold that the shopcraftmen, having struck in defiance of a Railroad Labor Board award of wages, have incurred the penalty of loss of seniority rights. The management intends to enforce this penalty, it was said, and have so informed President Harding.

Though carefully guarded in reference to possible administration action hereafter, the railroad viewpoint was that the attempt by the carriers to break the strike would continue and that no further intervention for settlement was in sight.

TRAINS STRANDED IN DESERT MOVED; TRAVELERS SUFFER

Some Passengers Among 125 Reaching San Bernardino Overcome by Heat—91-Year-Old Man Among Them.

By the Associated Press.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Aug. 14.—A Santa Fe relief train carrying approximately 125 passengers, many of whom still were suffering the effects of the terrific heat of the desert, arrived in this city from Needles last night. A guard armed with repeating rifles was on the observation car across the desert.

A physician and a nurse boarded the train here, being called by railroad officials to treat J. M. Norris, 91 years old, of Los Angeles, who was overcome by the heat at Needles Saturday.

William Hendrick, machinist's mate, United States Navy, en route to San Diego, worked continuously over the sick man as the train sped on to San Bernardino. Hendrick, fatigued from three sleepless nights on the desert, was aided by women passengers who made ice packs and carried water to the compartment where the injured man lay unconscious.

Cases of Suffering. "Grandma" Mallins Wood, 94, traveling alone from the East to her home in Berkeley, Cal., was smiling when the train arrived here, although so weak she could hardly talk.

For three days "Grandma" Wood suffered intensely from the sweltering temperature on the desert. Women passengers got electric fans and attended her in the railroad hotel at Needles.

A story of how a mother and father fought death for their 15-month-old baby was told by Mr. and Mrs. William Eicher of Denver. Mrs. Eicher slept but a few hours in three days, working nearly all the time with her husband over the child, Robert, overcome by the heat.

"Fresh milk was unobtainable at the railroad hotel and until Saturday we were unable to procure elsewhere any for the baby," Mrs. Eicher said. "People of the town heard of our plight and an engineer opened his home to us. A woman's organization—some people have human hearts—secured the milk for the baby. I am sure their action saved Robert's life. The temperature in the Pullman cars was 130 degrees at one time."

Appeal to Strikers in Va. N. McDonald, returning from Los Angeles to his home in Kansas City, was one of the five passengers composing a committee to request the striking train and engineers to move the trains.

"The striking railroad men treated us atrociously and answered our request to move the trains and relieve the suffering with the reply: 'Go to hell,' he declared.

J. A. Pullar, master mechanic of the Santa Fe's Los Angeles division, and George Anderson, road foreman of engines, formed the engine crew on the relief train out of Needles.

Will Make Inspection at Barracks. Major-General Charles F. Farnsworth, Chief of Infantry, United States Army, accompanied by Maj. L. F. Gerow, will make an inspection at Jefferson Barracks tomorrow. He will depart for Washington tomorrow night.

Lord Northcliffe, Power in English Politics, Is Dead

the hazardous career of reporter and magazine writer. Northcliffe obtained a position on the Illustrated London News, where he was enabled to "study the whole business." That he studied to some purpose is evident from his career.

At 21 Northcliffe issued his first journal, a weekly publication called Answers, in which he printed editorial paragraphs, short stories, bits of humor and chit-chat clipped from American newspapers. Answers dragged on the edge of failure for months and then suddenly shot to success as the result of an advertising scheme typical of Northcliffe's methods.

Used Novel Advertising Plan. Northcliffe plastered all England with lurid posters promising "a pound a week for life" to any person who sent in a blank clipping from Answers. The nearest success to the amount of money in the Bank of England on a certain date. The circulation of his paper jumped in an incredibly short time to 200,000, a week and within six weeks was able to show an annual profit of $300,000.

Having made one lucky stroke, Northcliffe—he was then only 25—went on to make another. He secured a position as sub-editor of the London Daily Mail, which reached a circulation of a million a day within a few years. Northcliffe himself directed the Mail, and it was his evident policy to print lots of interesting news briefly, to the detriment of advertising, if necessary. Before many years had passed, he acquired the London Times—and when the famous "Thunderer" came under his control there was none to deny that Northcliffe had become a tremendous power.

Each Venture Succeeded. Not the least remarkable feature of Northcliffe's journalistic career is the fact that practically every one of his ventures was attended by success. His papers grew in circulation and influence, and he made money without the slightest difficulty.

Northcliffe's activities during the war form a book in themselves. For with Lloyd George he contributed in a large measure to the routing of Britain to victory.

Baron of the Isle of Thanet nearly 15 years previously. When Northcliffe returned he was offered the post of Air Minister, but he scorned it in a letter in which he sharply criticized British conduct of the war. The United States was entering upon her part with enthusiasm, he averred, while Britain was dallying with petty problems at home.

"I feel that I can do better work if I maintain my independence and am not gagged by a loyalty that I do not feel toward the whole of your administration," he wrote to Lloyd George. Not long after, however, he did become Director of Propaganda in Enemy Countries, a responsible post from which he directed an extensive organization and did remarkable work.

When the armistice came and Winston Churchill was given a seat in the Cabinet, Northcliffe turned on Lloyd George. The Premier came back with a scathing reply and the two had been sharply antagonistic ever since. That was most plainly seen during the Genoa conference when the Northcliffe press was replete with criticism of the Premier and Lloyd George asked the British people not to pay any attention to it.

Ill on Armistice Day. Lord Northcliffe was ill at the time the armistice was signed. His illness was diagnosed as adenoma of the thyroid gland, but when he underwent an operation in June, 1921, although he was incapacitated, he exerted considerable influence on the British Government during the peace conference at Versailles.

Plans were made early in 1921 for a world tour. The start was delayed until July because of labor trouble, involving the publishing industry, and a renewal of hostilities between Lloyd George and himself. Lord Northcliffe attacked the motives of the Premier and Marquis Curzon in desiring to represent Great Britain at the Washington arms conference. As a result of this attack, Government news was barred from the Northcliffe press. Lord Northcliffe sailed for America, defying the boycott.

During his world tour, Lord Northcliffe occupied the public attention of each country he visited. He displayed great knowledge of the problems facing various nations. Arriving in New York, July 23, 1921, he warmly endorsed President Harding's plans for the armament conference.

During his tour of the Pacific he made a close study of the situation in the Far East, and in Hongkong expressed the opinion that the Anglo-Japanese alliance was a bar to its solution. He returned to London from his tour in May, 1922. In June he was reported to have made a tour of Germany incognito.

Wage Scale Difficulties. Shortly after the completion of his world tour, differences grew in the Newspaper Proprietors' Association over wage scales. Lord Northcliffe criticized certain methods of the newer members of the association. He later resigned.

In May, 1923, a sensation broke out between Northcliffe and other members of the Associated Newspapers Ltd., owners of the Northcliffe press. In June, 1922, Lord Northcliffe was brought against Lord Northcliffe by Sir Andrew Cairns, chairman of Associated Newspapers.

The day on which the announcement of the filing of these suits was made, Northcliffe was reported to be suffering from a nervous breakdown in Switzerland. He was brought back to England several days later.

BLAST UNDER RAILROAD BRIDGE IN MISSOURI

Dynamite Explosion Destroys Part of St. Louis and San Francisco Structure at Ash Grove.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 14.—A dynamite explosion late last night destroyed the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad bridge across the Sac River at Ash Grove, 15 miles north-west of here. Reports received at the local offices of the railroad were that the north abutment of the 400-foot structure had been destroyed and that the track had been raised more than a foot for a considerable distance.

Three fast trains were routed by way of the Monett-Joplin branch after the explosion, and officials said they did not know when traffic would be resumed. No estimate of the loss caused by the explosion could be made, officials said.

Wrecking crews from here and from Fort Scott, Kan., were sent to the scene. Deputy United States Marshals and special railroad agents also have gone to Ash Grove to conduct an investigation. The bridge is on the main line between Springfield and Kansas City.

POPE SUFFERS SLIGHT COLD, ABANDONS WALK IN GARDENS

Pontiff Had Severe Attack of Chills, but Health Is Restored

By the Associated Press. ROME, Aug. 14.—Pope Pius has suffered a slight cold, says the Messaggero, today, due to walking in the Vatican gardens, despite the terrific heat, and then reentering his cool apartment. He suffered a severe attack of chills a few days ago, but now his health is restored. He has decided, however, to abandon his walks in the gardens while the heat is so intense.

and was reported that he had been poisoned. Northcliffe married Miss Mary Minner, daughter of Robert Milner of Kensington and St. Vincent, in 1888. His daughter was married to Dr. Lucas V. King, principal of a medical school at Madras. One of Lord Northcliffe's brothers, Baron Rothermere of Homestead and Hildesheim, survives him.

Both have been associated with him in his journalistic enterprise.

Union Pacific Line Blocked by Refusal of Crews to Run Trains.

By the Associated Press.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 14.—Santa Fe officials announced today that all westbound transcontinental trains today would be held at Las Vegas on account of the men's strike here.

By the Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 14.—The Santa Fe system virtually is paralyzed by walkouts of brotherhood men at Needles, Cal., Seligman, Ash Fork, Williams and Winslow, Ariz., today, and there is one independent strike at Albuquerque, N. M.

The Union Pacific's line from Lake to Los Angeles is blocked today by refusal of brotherhood men to move trains. Chiefly Las Vegas, Nev., to move trains. This road planned to detour two of its trains over Southern Pacific tracks, but what effect the strike at Roseville will have on this had not been made clear early today.

By Leased Wire From the New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Proposals to buy liquor openly while at sea,
take a Government receipt for it and challenge the authorities to question the legality of its possession were made by passengers of the SS.
George Washington, according to August A. Busch of St. Louis, president of the Anheuser-Busch Inc., who has just returned from a three-month visit to the principal European centers.

American visitors to Europe are returning, said Busch, more convinced than ever that the eighteenth amendment must be amended, and the American colony in Paris is growing rapidly as a result of people tiring of the prohibition law.

"It was interesting," said Busch,
"to observe that returning Americans were deeply interested in the movement to amend the Volstead act to legalize the sale of light wines and beer."

"In Europe they had enjoyed something of their old American freedom and their Government took interest enough in them to see that they enjoyed this freedom on their Government-owned and operated steamships. These Americans, some of them high Government officials and prominent business men, came back with the conviction that the United States should amend the prohibition law in order that American business may prosper and that American citizens may live in consistent in their own country, and without hypocrisy or law-breaking."

Prosecution Invited.

"It was my object, primarily, in my recent correspondence with Washington officials relative to the sale of liquor by the Government to passengers on its steamships, to accuse the American people with the fact that the United States could not operate its great shipping enterprises and comply with either the letter or the spirit of the Volstead act. The Government was right on leaving the prohibition law on the one while making some ineffective efforts to enforce it on land. Quite a number of the George Washington passengers discussed the proposition of buying a quantity of liquor from the Government on board the steamship, taking a Government receipt for it, and then inviting the Government to arrest and prosecute them when they came ashore."

"It might bring up an interesting legal issue as to whether the Government could buy liquor with money taken out of the Treasury of the United States, sell this liquor at a profit to an American citizen, and then prosecute him for having possession of property the Government had sold him."

"Private business enterprises of most proportions have been confronted with exactly the same conditions that the Government found in the operation of its steamships.
The law-abiding hotels of the United States, in their restaurant service, complain that they cannot compete with the many restaurants that are operated by law-breaking. During the war it was represented to the officials at Washington by dry propa-gandists that something like 500,000 railroad freight cars were used by the brewing industry, and that these cars were needed for other purposes."

"The brewing industry willingly complied with every request of the Government with respect to wartime restrictions, but the arguments were used largely to try to fasten prohibition permanently upon the country, against the will, as I believe, of a majority of the American people."

"Instead of violating the prohibition law, as the Government does in its own business, it should amend the Volstead act in the interest of common fairness to American business and American citizens."

"An analysis of the present policy of the Government will prove that the Government is contributing substantially to the prosperity of the German farmers by buying beer manufactured from their grain by German brewers and selling this beer
to American citizens traveling on German Board steamers. The German and French farmers who grow crops for wine are also sharing in the prosperity which our American Government promotes by buying beer for its ships."

Buying British Whisky.

"I am informed that the United States Shipping Board, with the advice of the dry organizations has agreed to a legislative program intended to prohibit the landing of any ship, American or foreign, that has liquor on board. The Government is buying large quantities of British whisky to sell on its ships in violation of the law, and yet it is asking the English to help enforce the law, which the Government had enacted at sea and enforces badly ashore.

"In the correspondence addressed to the President and the Congress with respect to the sale of liquor on Government ships, I made it quite plain that my purpose was to prove the impracticability and injustice of the Volstead act, as written and administered, and the necessity of reasonable amendment."

"The chairman of the Shipping Board, Mr. Lasker, apparently sought to confuse the issue by stating that I was inspired by motives to aid in upbuilding German enterprises, and to leave the impression,
at least, that during the war I was in sympathy with the German cause.
He also caused to be printed all over the United States that my father,
the late Adolphus Busch, was the most intimate American friend of the German Kaiser."

"The truth is that my father never knew the Kaiser, and if he had it would not have been to his discredit. Everybody recognized my father as the highest type of American citizen, who invested his money in American enterprises which he either created or helped to build up.
He had no stock nor financial interest in any German enterprise of any kind or description. He was at the head of many American enterprises that actively competed with the enterprises of other nations
throughout the entire world."

"I am not dependent on the brewing industry for my living. I can live and make money without brewing. My interest is deeper and broader than any mere business consideration. I am thinking of the consequences to the health, morals

and character of Americans, and the reputation of America abroad. It is creating a spirit of lawlessness. It is fostering hypocrisy which inevitably ruins character."

han then hit Arnold, who ran inside
for his pistol.

"When Arnold came out he began shooting us down like dogs," Benish went on. "I shot at him once and Callahan fired the rest of the shots.
Then we went to Fifth street and Illinois avenue, East St. Louis, and called a taxi to go to the hospital."

General foremen were not called on strike, but Benish said Arnold
was only a "straight" foreman.

Callahan's only statement was that a stranger who held him and his companions up southeast of the municipal bridge approach in East St.
Louis had shot him. Venable was unable to make a statement before he died.

Man Hurt When Porch Collapses.

Paul Buchmiller, 52 years old, a carpenter, of 3725 Lucky street, suffered a fracture of the skull and fractures of several ribs, at 11:30 a.
m. today, when the railing of a second-floor porch at 4239 Labadie avenue, gave way, throwing him 15 feet to the ground.

Man Shot in Affray
ON OLIVE STREET ROAD

Construction Engineer and Companion Arrested, Say Victim
Was Member of Robber Gang.

Frank Moran of 2226A Market street was seriously wounded in the abdomen early yesterday, in an affray on Olive Street road, near Woodson road. Investigation has not established fully whether the shooting
was caused by an attempted robbery,
in which Moran is alleged to have taken part, or to a roadside quarrel over remarks made about women.

Robert E. Duncan, living at Hotel Statler, who is chief engineer for a construction company, and who is in charge of a downtown labor agency, is held in the Clayton jail on the charge of shooting Moran. Joseph Schweppe, proprietor of downtown
lodging houses, is under $2000 bond.

Duncan and Schweppe went to a roadhouse Saturday evening with two young women, in Schweppe's automobile. Leaving the place about 10 p. m., Duncan said he heard some disparaging remarks made about the women. He said he told a man, whom he had heard making an uncomplimentary remark, that he was "no gentleman."

A mile beyond the car went on Olive Street road, Duncan said, another machine kept within a short distance, and at one point both cars stopped and men got out of the rear
car. One of them, Duncan said, demanded of him whether he meant to be "hard," and when he said he was not looking for trouble, the men got back into their machine, but continued to follow.

A mile beyond the first stop, the machine behind ran into the one driven by Schweppe, and all the occupants of both cars got out. Duncan said a man held him up and took $75 from him, and that he saw Schweppe being held up. He said he tripped the man who robbed him, causing the man to drop his revolver, and that he, Duncan, picked up the revolver and fired at
the man who was robbing Schweppe.

Schweppe drove Duncan and one of the women to a farm house, the other woman having disappeared,
and Deputy Sheriff were called.
They found Moran wounded, and he was taken to the Physicians and Surgeons' Hospital, 2800 North Taylor avenue. He was in such a condition today that he could not be questioned.

Two men arrested by the city police were turned over to the county authorities, and are believed to have been with Moran. They were held at Clayton today.

Man Falls Out of Chair Dead.

A post-mortem examination today showed that George Smith, 54 years old, of 522 North Whittier street, who fell dead from a chair in his home yesterday morning, died from a rupture of the pulmonary artery.
Smith's wife said he had complained earlier of pains in the shoulder and had taken some tablets, shortly after which he collapsed. An analysis of the tablets showed that they could not have contributed to his death.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED IN SANGSTER-DIVORCE CASE

Injustice Done Both Sides in Dismissal, Judge Says—New Affidavits Presented.

Circuit Judge Garache today
granted a new trial of the divorce case of Nell H. Sangster against R.
D. Sangster, industrial commissioner of the Chamber of Commerce, declaring that, in light of new facts,
he granted a new trial of the divorce case.

In his previous dismissal of Mrs. Sangster's petition and her husband's cross-bill.

Affidavits not previously before the court now have come to his attention, the Judge declares, and that the new trial is to correct an injustice done both parties. He declined to discuss the nature of the affidavits.

DEATH OF MAN, HIT

BY AUTO, ACCIDENTAL

Driver of Machine Testifies John
J. Williams Stepped Back Into Path of Car.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the case of John J. Williams, 49 years old, of 2523 Geyer avenue, a watchman for the Terminal Railroad, who was struck Saturday at 6:30 a. m. by the automobile of Jacob L. Rudd, 34 3617 Manhattan avenue, Maplewood,
at Jefferson and Lafayette avenues.
Williams died yesterday at the city hospital.

Kurtz testified that Williams was crossing the street diagonally after leaving a street car and that he observed him at a distance of about eight feet. He swerved his car in one direction to avoid Williams. He testified that Williams stepped back in the same direction, getting into the path of the car.

Twelve Persons Injured in Four Motor Accidents.

Twelve persons were injured in four motor accidents yesterday, eight of them having been in one machine which overturned.

Harry Kinsley, 18, a shoemaker,
of 3146 Chouteau avenue, rented a Ford touring car and took a party of seven relatives and friends for a ride. Going west on Ridge avenue, he swerved to avoid another car at Arlington avenue and his car overturned against the curb. All the occupants were injured. Mrs. Josephine Barcalt, 35, a widow, of 3146 Chouteau avenue, suffered lacerations of the scalp and a probable fracture of the skull; Kinsley was burned; Walter Buck, 19, a shoemaker, of 3146
Chouteau avenue, suffered sprains
of the right arm, and Joseph Kinsley, 45, of 3146 Chouteau avenue; his son,
Alfred, 7; Margaret Kinsley, 14;
Ethel Davis, 14, of 4375 Page boulevard, and James Hanagan, 17, of 1017 South Cardinal avenue, shoe-workers, were all cut and bruised.

Said to Have Been Driving Rapidly.

Mrs. Barcalt and Alfred Kinsley were taken to the city hospital immediately; the others were treated at Barnes Hospital and went home.
Several hours later an ambulance was called to the Kinsley home and Harry Kinsley, Hanagan, Buck and the Davis girl were taken to the city hospital for further treatment. A witness to the accident told policemen that Kinsley was driving rapidly.

Marie Viviano, 10, daughter of Mrs. Mary Viviano of 3422 Semple avenue, suffered a fracture of the left leg and lacerations of the right leg when a truck driven by Joseph Lombardo of 1207 Foster alley backed over her in front of his home.
He did not know the girl was behind the machine until he heard her scream. She was visiting friends at 1207 Foster alley.

Mrs. Laura Cohen, 39, and her son, David, 11, of 1622 North Ninth street, were thrown from the seat of a car of a motorcycle operated by Rufus Kelly of 1216 Chambers street
when a speeding automobile overturned it at Thirteenth and Benton

Flyers Killed at Chippewa Lake in Ohio; Another May Die After Fall Near Detroit.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Aug. 14.—One man probably was fatally injured and three others were severely hurt when an airplane was dashed to pieces in a field near Red Ford, 10 miles northwest of Detroit, yesterday. The machine, piloted by Guy K. Rudd, Detroit, carried two friends of Rudd and one commercial passenger. The latter, Martin Driscoll, 32, of Detroit, suffered a broken arm, a broken leg, probably fracture of the skull, and was severely shocked.
Physicians say he cannot live. Rudd and two other male passengers were cut and bruised and are suffering from shock. The machine was 250 feet in the air when it suddenly went into a nose dive.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 14.—Louis
Yahn, 21, of Newark, N. J., and James Ray, 21, mechanic and aviator at the Medina Aviation Club, were killed late yesterday when their airplane went into a tail spin and fell as they were preparing to land at Chippewa Lake near Medina. Yahn was visiting Ray. Ray, it was said, was teaching Yahn, who also was a mechanic, to operate the machine. The accident was witnessed by hundreds of motorists out for a Sunday drive.

SAYS EX-DETECTIVE
LED GANG OF ROBBERS

Man Who Confesses in Kansas City States Head of Defunct Agency Directed Payroll Robbers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 14.—The arrest of John Hagan, former head of the defunct Midwest Secret Service Agency, is expected today on charges made by George Willis, in his confession to the Kansas City, Kan., authorities. Willis charged Hagan with being the director of a band of holdup men, thugs, safe crackers and payroll robbers who have terrorized Kansas City and the vicinity recently.

Police began a search last night for Hagan, Charles "Chuck" Brown, former superintendent of the agency; Joe Wagner, a police character, and Robert Eaton, all mentioned in the confession of Willis. Early last night Chief Edwards appeared at police headquarters and inquired what steps were being taken to apprehend Hagan, Wagner, Brown and Eaton. He immediately ordered three patrolmen, in charge of Sgt. Anton Mounit, to search in the city for the men.

Former City Officer Sought.
Mounit said late last night that the search had been extended to include Jack Farrell, former city detective, who was discharged from the force after the escape of Denny Chester from officers at Broken Bow, Neb. Farrell, Mounit said, is wanted by the Kansas authorities. He was connected with Hagan in the management of the Midwest organization.

Mounit, in reporting to Chief Waleston last night, said he had found that Wagner and Eaton had stayed at the Hotel Baltimore for three weeks recently checking out at the hotel July 31. He also said he was told at the hotel that Hagan had been there Saturday afternoon, inquiring for Brown and Wagner.

Said to Admit Other Theft.
Hagan is charged in a warrant issued by E. A. Enright, Wyandotte County Attorney, with implication in the recent robbery of a cigar store in Kansas City, Kan., in which $1800 was taken. The warrant was issued after the arrest of Willis, who, the police say, confessed to a score of other recent robberies.

Wagner is charged in one of the warrants issued by Enright as being the driver of the motor car in which robbers who recently looted the Piper State Bank, Piper, Kan., of $2700 escaped.

SLAIN OIL MAN'S BROTHER IS PATIENT IN LOCAL INSTITUTION

Michael McBride Possibly May Be Heir of Wealthy Operator Murdered Near Washington.

Michael McBride, 62 years old, brother of Barney A. McBride, wealthy retired oil dealer, whose mutilated body was found Thursday in a sack concealed under a bridge near Washington, D. C., has been in St. Vincent's institution for two months recovering from nervous disorders brought on by ill health. The murdered man lived in New York and was a former oil operator in the Oklahoma fields. No relatives were found in Washington, and it is thought that Michael McBride may be his heir. Robbery is believed the motive of the killing, as $1800 worth of jewelry and traveler's checks known to have been in McBride's possession were not found.

WATER MAIN BREAKS, DOING DAMAGE TO LAWNS AND HOUSES

The breaking of a 36-inch water main in the 1400 block of Sulphur avenue early yesterday morning flooded the neighborhood and caused damage to lawns and foundations of houses estimated at $2000 before representatives of the Water Department arrived to block off the line. Another result of the break was that the water pressure in the southwestern part of the city was weak for several hours after the break had been repaired.

LAGOON IS AID IN ESCAPE

A supposed highwayman eluded two detectives in Forest Park Saturday night by twice jumping into the lagoon and by his nimbleness of foot. Shots were fired by the detectives.

Detectives Jordan and Horn spied a man on Akron Drive about 9:30 p. m. and halted him. He replied by diving into the lagoon and swimming for the other side. Two shots were fired and Horn ran around to intercept him. The man crawled from the bank and placed himself in such a position between the detective that they could not shoot without the risk of wounding each other. The man ran and was chased to the foot of Art Hill, where he again plunged into the lagoon and eluded the detectives.

WHEN a truck driver boasts about thousands of miles, powerful, slipless traction and real cushioning down to the last mile, he's talking about his Goodyear Cord Truck Tires.

It is one of the complete line of Goodyear Truck Tires sold and serviced by your Goodyear Truck Tire Dealer.

The Cubs Didn't Put Barber In Until After the Cardinals Had Been Thoroughly Trimmed

Hornsby, Champion Hitter, First Jeered, Then Cheered As Cardinals Make 7 Errors

Rogers' Misplay Early in the Game Starts the "Razzing" But His Home Run in the Ninth, His 29th This Year, Draws Applause of 18,000—Cubs Win 16 to 5.

By Joseph F. Holland.

Until yesterday Bill Sherdel was recognized as the Nemesis of the Chicago Cubs. It was generally agreed around the circuit of the National League that the minute "Wee Willie" stepped out to warm up, the Cubs curled up. There was some evidence to substantiate the assertion, too. The Cardinals had won only five games out of 14, with the Cubs and Bill had won three of those.

But yesterday Bill was an example of the pitcher that went to the well once too often. Bill started against the Cubs in the first inning and lasted six and one-third innings, during which time he was smothered under an avalanche of 16 hits and eight runs. In the ninth, however, the Cubs opened up and the official score became an account.

Hornsby Makes Twenty-Ninth Home Run. The heartless spectators who remained through to the bitter end, however, were rewarded to some slight degree for their patience. Rogers, first up in the ninth, drove high into the left-field bleachers for his twenty-ninth home run of the season.

It was one time during the day that Hornsby was the recipient of cheers, and he was so surprised that he neglected to acknowledge it. From the first inning, when Rogers muffed a throw at second, the Cardinals' apparent hit with the bases filled in the first inning and was all set for the day.

Then, when the ninth inning whirled around, and the Cubs drove into the right-field pavilion. He had previously made an infelix hit when Marty Krug muffed the ball. He held the ball in his hand until it was too late to throw for Mueller.

Ban Johnson Attends Game at Comiskey Park, First Time in 3 Years

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—FOR the first time in three years, or since the White Sox world series scandal of 1919, Ban Johnson, president of the American League, yesterday attended a game at Comiskey Park. A personal grievance between Ban and Charlie Comiskey which had its foundation in the investigation of the charges against the White Sox players, became so bitter that Ban had remained away from the old Roman and his ball park.

It is believed nothing but a desire to watch the Browns play formed him to break his resolve to "cut" Comiskey. Baseball's supreme dictator, K. M. Landis, was also present at the game.

750, or the Sox to arrive, now own the club outright, have a club worth twice as much as it cost and have a team fighting for the pennant.

We recommend the commission plan in preference to the Boston gentlemen.

THE New York Boxing Commission at present is supplying a sample of too much commission. In its attempt to enforce two of its rulings it finds itself today the obnoxious of a quiet murmur throughout the world.

Tonight two men will fight for the middleweight honors at New York. The names are entirely unimportant to the boxing world. Even in New York there doubtless will be some who will ask: "Who are Rosenberg and Krug, who fight tonight for the middleweight title, and how did they get that way?"

The fact is, the commission disqualified all the legitimate title men and had to select a couple of ordinary boxers on whom to bestow the right to fight for a title. Nobody will pay any attention to either, which ever wins, outside of New York at least.

Frush and Johnny Dundee will battle for the featherweight crown at Brooklyn tomorrow night. Although Johnny Kilbane, the champion, has knocked out Frush and has never been beaten at his championship weight.

If Frush should beat Dundee, could the world by any stretch of imagination be expected to concede Frush the title?

Slater Has 2 Point Lead Over Ty Cobb

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The race for batting honors of the American League between Ty Cobb and George Slater grew closer today. Slater made only one hit in four times at bat, giving him a total of 173 hits in 421 times at bat.

Cobb got one hit in three times at bat, giving him a total of 173 hits in 421 times at bat. Before yesterday's game Slater had a mark of 412, compared to 403 for Cobb.

MEMPHIS HAS ANOTHER LOSING WEEK, BUT IS STILL IN FIRST PLACE

By the Associated Press. MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 14.—Bert Niehoff and his Mobile Bears, sharing pace-making honors for the week with the Birmingham club, last night stood only 4½ games behind the league-leading Memphis Chickasaws in the Southern Association pennant chase.

Memphis traveled a rocky road last week, winning only three of eight games played, but came back yesterday with a double win over Atlanta, while the Browns, rated as a strong contender for championship honors, won only three of seven during the week ended yesterday and dropped from third to fourth place as a result of a defeat at the hands of the Travelers today.

All of the other clubs lost the majority of their games in the week's play. Mobile piled up a total of 130 hits in its nine games and scored 75 runs. Birmingham players in six games hammered out 75 hits for 43 runs in six games.

The record for the week's play shows in games won, lost and tied, runs, hits, errors, men left on bases and opponents' runs.

White Captures Title. CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—A White of the Olympic Club of San Francisco, won the National A. U. senior fancy diving championship, held in connection with the Pageant of Progress yesterday. The Californian, who holds the national indoor title, annexed the outdoor championship by scoring 127.1 points, Arthur Hartman of the I. A. C. who won the event last year, was second, with 125 points.

Jim Thorpe Suspended. HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 14.—Jim Thorpe, former major league player, was under indefinite suspension from the Hartford Eastern League club. Manager Jack Coffey said that Thorpe, who is leading the league in batting, had failed to keep in condition.

The Browns' Pitching Falters At Start of Crucial Trip; Fohl Has Faith in Staff

Vangilder, Third Regular to Crack Within Three Days, Is Slughtered by White Sox in Final Game of Series at Chicago—Ban Johnson and 22,000 Others Applaud St. Louisans.

By Dent McKimming, Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—(En route with the Browns).—"Well, cheer up, boys. We'll go down there to New York and jolt the Yanks to help St. Louis. They're afraid of us, and we're going to lick 'em."

This was the parting words of the Chicago White Sox players to the Browns, as the two clubs boarded trains from Chicago for the East, last night. The Browns had just lost the second part of the two-game series to Gleason's men. Elam Vangilder had faltered in the second inning and Chicago had scored six runs to win the game. The final score was 9 to 6.

The White Sox entrained for Boston at the same hour that the Browns departed for Washington. From Boston the Sox move down to the Polo Grounds.

"They're afraid of us, if ever a ball club was," said Ernie Johnson of the White Sox, referring to the Yanks. "We took two games out of three from them in the last series and we will surely beat them again."

If the Yanks have an ally on the playing field, the team has not yet been discovered. It is the opinion of the players that even the Red Sox would give their very all to whip the club that has been built of former Red Sox stars. The Browns, on the other hand, find favor in every town in the circuit.

Applause Equally Divided. The conduct of the 22,000 crowd at the Sox park yesterday was such that it was hard to tell from the cheering which was the home club. George Slater was applauded vigorously on his every trip to the plate and on his every catch.

Pitching, that department upon which fond hopes of a pennant are based, has proved a most painful though not disastrous disappointment in the last three games played by the Browns. In the final contest at St. Louis, Vangilder, plagiatic, plodding, conscientious Vangilder, was literally driven from the hill in one inning when Washington scored four runs. The Browns finally won, but not by grace of good pitching.

Again, in the first game at Chicago, Urban Shocker was pounded, hammered and otherwise maltreated to the extent of 17 hits and 5 runs. Again the Browns won, not by the grace of good pitching.

But, the tallman strayed or was stolen yesterday. The pitching, as on two previous occasions was bad. Fohl let Van remain long enough to pitch to Eddie Collins and prevent Strunk from scoring, instead of a single in center.

The Sox barged one run in the fourth and two in the eighth, the details of which would be more painful than interesting in the relative due in Washington today.

The Browns did not arrive in Washington until 4 p. m. and will open their five-game series tomorrow. There are three regular scheduled games and two doubleheaders have been added to the program. It is probable that the double hits will be played on Tuesday and Wednesday with a single game Thursday.

America Weak at Double. So it goes, as the Americas are named. Frankly, I may as well admit it. I cannot see a team should win against the force. It seems to me that the force comes for the Americans to the force to doubles. If the force leaves our shores it is in proof that we are far behind the force. Possibly I have something that does not agree for I know I found like a croaker, but should time permit, I should like to see the force in the future years in the force to repel any foreign force, matter how strong. Meanwhile, on Patterson, Pat Wood and the force, let the American doubles, what can be done.

MINOR LEAGUE TEAM POUND OUT 20 RUNS IN DOUBLE. BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The Chicago White Sox yesterday scored 20 runs in a total of 131 hits in the second game of the series, defeating the Browns 20 to 6.

Chicago's offense was led by George Slater, who hit for a total of 173 hits in 421 times at bat. Slater's performance was a key factor in the Sox's victory.

The Sox's pitching was also strong, with Elam Vangilder leading the staff. Vangilder's performance was a key factor in the Sox's victory.

Cards' Pitching and Defense Both Poor; Haines Probably Will Hurl Today's Game

Perhaps the razzing of Hornsby was intended for the whole team. The Cardinals were entirely off yesterday. They did not hit. Three hits were made in the first eight innings. In the ninth they made five hits and four runs after Aldridge had eased up with a 18-run lead.

The feeling was the poorest that it has been at a flash since yesterday. Seven errors found their way into the box score. Hornsby had two of them. Toporcer had a like number and Al Smith, Sherdel and Fournier divided three others.

Then the pitching. Sherdel was hit hard, if not except a flash since yesterday. Then Lou North took his punishment. The way Bill Perrier was pounded in the eighth and ninth was scandalous. Bill gave six hits and six runs while attempting to break through two innings.

As a result the Cardinals are today 1½ games behind the Giants. When the team left Boston Thursday night it was 1½ games ahead. Two defeats at home and it has fallen that far behind. New York is apparently back in its stride. It has won four straight games and is getting good pitching again.

Mueller Wins Four Paves. Heinie Mueller was one young St. Louisan who did not get in "wrong" with the popular Heinie made a spectacular sneaking catch of Al.

REBER DEFEATS KLEM IN FEATURE SINGLES MATCH OF CHALLENGE TOURNEY

In a feature match of the singles event in the Triple A challenge tennis tournament yesterday Charles Reber defeated Fritz Klem, the contest was completed in two sets. Reber winning by a 6-3, 6-2 score.

The Triple A players had a busy week, more than 15 matches being played in the challenge tourney. All records for challenges during the coming week have been broken, proving that the tournament is very popular. There will be 21 contests played before next Sunday night.

In the feature challenge, Wray Brown and Karl Kamman will oppose Ted Drees and Fred Jostes for first place in the doubles ranking. Ted Dreesman will be required to defend his place in the singles ranking as the result of a challenge from Harold M. Hess.

SINGLES. J. K. Goehner defeated Thompson, 6-2, 6-4. Ray Brown defeated Hart Vancovich, 6-2, 6-4. Charles Reber defeated Fritz Klem, 6-3, 6-2. Fred Jostes defeated Ted Drees, 6-4, 6-2.

U. S. Tennis Stars Weak at Doubles, Bill Tilden Says

Americans Do Not Pay Enough Attention to Science of Team Play, He Asserts.

By William T. Tilden II,
Tennis Champion of the World,
1920-1921.

Three times in 22 years the American doubles championship in tennis has gone abroad. Twice it was carried to England by the famous Doherty brothers, H. L. and R. F. Once Norman Brookes and Gerald Patterson bore the title "down under" to Australia.

This year America will be called on to repeat the most serious foreign invasion that ever threatened its doubles championship. No less than three first-class teams of three foreign countries will strive for the crown now held all too precariously by Vincent Richards and myself. Vincent and I seem to be the goats. Every time we win the national doubles championship a flock of foreign stars descend and grab it from us. In 1918 we annexed the title for the first time, only to have Brookes and Patterson romp home with it in 1919. Last year we scaled the heights for a second time. This season, as the title defense draws closer, I see looming on the horizon the stalwart and elongated forms of some combination of Gerald Patterson, J. O. Anderson and Pat O'Hara Wood, the trim and dapper figures of Manuel Alonso and Count de Gomez and the dashing, gallant French pair, Cochet and Borotra barring our paths.

Fine Tourney in Prospect.
This is a sad sight for the defending champions, but it is a delightful one for the tennis world, for all these teams are great and add a luster to the American doubles championship which it too often sadly lacks.

I look to see Patterson paired with Pat Wood and Anderson teamed up with his fellow-countryman, R. C. Wertheim, who, by the way, is my double I hear. There are trouble ahead for any team that meets either of these combinations.

The French and Spanish teams are hardly as dangerous as either of the American pairs. The second string French team of Gobert and Brugnon might cause serious trouble if they struck a streak.

Who has America to place in the lead to repeat such an invasion? The present national champions? Yes, but we are none too potent. R. N. Williams and Watson Washburn? A splendid team which may or may not succeed in stopping the foreign advance. Samuel Hardy and S. H. Vothell? A team of veterans who, in craft, will equal the invaders, but who will find the strain of continuous five-set matches hard. Billy Johnston and Willie Davis? A hard-hitting, erratic combination without team work—dangerous but not reliable and hardly the team to count on to stop the foreigners. The Kinseys, Bob and Howard? A team with perfect accord, which works like a machine, but which is too soft to meet the smashing attack of the Australians.

America Weak at Doubles.

So it goes, as the American teams are named. Frankly, I may be pessimistic, but I cannot see a team which should win against the foreign tide. It seems to me that the time has come for the Americans to turn seriously to doubles. If the title again goes to the foreigners, it is conclusive proof that we are far behind in the doubles game. It is quite possible that we may find ourselves faced with the Davis cup doubles the turning point in defense of the coveted trophy. Let the teams that meet the foreigners this year study their methods of attack and profit thereby. There is no reason why Americans cannot play good doubles. It is simply that they have not the patience to do so. Doubles is a game of science and placement; singles a game of brawn and speed. Most Americans play doubles on the singles formula.

I trust I am mistaken in my ideas of the strength of the foreign invasion. I hope the title remains in America. Naturally, I would greatly prefer it to remain in the same hands. I feel that would be an ideal arrangement, but I do not look to see that occur. However, I trust that this year will once for all bear in on the American tennis mind that we must have first-class doubles teams. Possibly I have eaten something that does not agree with me, for I know I sound like a calamity preacher, but should time prove me a good prophet let us take warning in future years be in a position to repel any foreign invasion, no matter how strong. Meanwhile bring on Patterson, Pat Wood et al. and let the American doubles team see what can be done.

MINOR LEAGUE TEAMS POUND OUT 20 HOME RUNS IN DOUBLE BILL

By the Associated Press.
HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 14.—Twenty home runs, nine in the first game and 11 in the seven-inning second game, marked a double-header between Hastings and Hastings in the Nebraska State League here yesterday, in which 10 hits for a total of 123 bases were made. Hastings won the first game, 10 to 3, and Lincoln 1, and Lincoln 2, 10 to 1, on 12 hits. Boel and Conkey of the Lincoln club led in the home run hitting with three each. Echter and Tones of the Hastings club had two each.

U. S. Most Promising Net Star

MISS HELEN WILLIS.

With the three-time defeat of Mrs. Bundy, America's last hope of defending the title, the Scandinavian holder of the U. S. title this year vaulted. The fine playing of Miss Willis, 16-year-old California girl holds out promise for the future, however.

BUSTER BROWNS AND DONNELLYS WILL MEET FOR HORSESHOE TITLE

The Buster Browns, champions of the Sunday morning division of the Municipal Horseshoe Pitchers' League, closed the regular season yesterday by winning 8 out of 12 games from the Jack Negro team.

The Lucky Rings team captured 10 out of 12 games from the Fairground team.

The championship games between the Donnelly Stars and Buster Browns will be played next Saturday and Sunday. The matches will consist of 12 50-point games. Saturday's match will be played at Sherman Park, while Sunday's match will be played at Fairground Park. A preliminary match between two all-star teams will be played preceding the Buster Brown-Donnelly star contest.

Final standings:
Buster Browns Won. Lost.
Jack Negro 105 45
Lucky Rings 93 72
Fairground 27 153

Fort Leavenworth Wins.

By the Associated Press.
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 14.—Overcoming the Denver Prairie Dogs handicap of six goals in the seventh chukker, Fort Leavenworth managed to pull yesterday's polo game out of the five by a single point, the score being 11 to 10.

I. A. C. Will Send Formidable Squad To A. A. U. Games

Team of 45, Including Many Western College Athletes, to Compete at Newark.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Word has been received at Amateur Athletic Union headquarters in New York that the Illinois Athletic Club will be represented in the National A. A. U. track and field and relay championships at Newark, on Sept. 8, 9 and 11, by one of the strongest teams that has ever represented the Chicago club.

In a letter to Frederick W. Ruben, Secretary of the A. A. U., Charles A. Dean, chairman of the Illinois Athletic Club Athletic Committee, says his club's chances of winning the team championship this year are particularly bright. A co-leader of college stars, including some of the greatest performers in the country, have become affiliated with the club and the indications are that the tri-color will be represented, not only in the nationals this year, but for some time to come, by one of the strongest teams in its history.

Johnny Behr, the I. A. C. coach, has 45 men in training at the present time and many of these new men will compete under the club's colors for the first time in the Central A. U. championships at Detroit next Saturday.

Illinois U. Stars on Team.
The University of Illinois track team, winner of the Big Ten indoor and outdoor titles the past year, has contributed several scintillating athletes to the tri-color club. Among the new faces on the I. A. C. team who hail from Coach Harry Gill's aggregation are Wallace, a hurdler, who won many points for the Illinois; Cannon, winner of the Big Ten shotput, and Patterson, one of the best distance men in the nation.

Harold Osborne, regarded as the greatest allround athlete ever turned out at Illinois, is another recent acquisition of the Illinois A. C., and has already taken part in one meet under the club's colors. Other stars who have just joined the I. A. C. include Carl Anderson of Minnesota, a star hurdler; Hoffman, Sergeant and Westbrook of Michigan and Stolle of Wisconsin.

Hoffman is one of the greatest javelin throwers in the country and ranks second only to Angier of Illinois. He has even beaten Angier, doing so after the latter had established a world record in the event.

Sergeant was one of the top-notch hurdlers of the Western Conference last year and was about on a par with Stolle of Wisconsin, Wallace of Illinois and Anderson of Minnesota.

Westbrook won fame as a broad jumper, but he is also a pole vaulter of more than the average ability.

Paula Joins Tricolor.
In addition to the athletes from the Big Ten schools, the Illinois A. C. has acquired several mighty performers from outside institutions, including Altenberg, the State Normal sprinter, and Paula of Grinnell. The acquisition of Paula is of great importance, as the Iowa has demonstrated that he is one of the greatest sprinters in the country. Paula, who was wounded in the war, won two of the sprint events at the national collegiate track meet, held on Haggis Field, Chicago, last June, and made noteworthy time in both of them.

Manager Tris Speaker was the heavy hitter for Cleveland, with three hits in four times at bat.

Hunter and Von Elm Barred From Playing In National Amateur

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—It was learned yesterday that Willie L. Hunter of England, formerly British amateur golf champion, and George von Elm of Salt Lake City had been declared ineligible to compete in the national amateur tournament at Brookline, Mass., at a meeting in Chicago during the national open meet.

The cases of Hunter and several others were considered, on charges that they had violated the amateur definition, and the applications for admission to the national amateur championship, to be held at Brookline, Mass., next month were refused to both men.

The acts of professionalism charged to have been raised against these two famous golfers were not announced, but it was said that neither had done anything that was dishonorable in any way, but had merely played under circumstances that made their standing as amateurs questionable.

Pitcher Virgil Barnes made his first start as a Giant regular against the Braves yesterday, defeated them, 4 to 2, and helped his fellow McGrawites to lengthen their lead over the Cardinals.

Local Players in East Side Tourney

Kammann, Washington U. Captain, Favored to Win Singles Tennis Title.

Play in the East St. Louis tennis championship tournament will open this afternoon. First round matches must be completed before Aug. 21, and may be played anywhere in the district territory. Semifinal and final round matches will be played on the courts in Jones Park, East St. Louis.

The entry in the East St. Louis event shows 43 players in the Men's singles and 16 teams of doubles. Karl Kammann, the Washington University star, is entered and should win the singles event. Other St. Louis tennis players in the event are as follows: J. L. Hawkins, Ed Rice, P. Scherrer, Dr. G. H. Rice, B. Nideelman and Davidson Oberstar.

All of the leading East St. Louis stars are entered in the play. William C. Adair, Allen Bucknell, Teddy Eggman and H. S. Kramer Jr. are most likely to advance several rounds without much opposition.

Brooklyn, through eighth and ninth inning rallies that netted three runs, were enabled to turn back the Phillies, 3 to 2.

Bennett Pitches No-Hit Contest

Alton Right-Hander Blanks Millers, 2-0—M. L. League Game Played in 1.08.

Two Missouri-Illinois Trolley League records were shattered yesterday in the game between the Alton Blues and Ben Millers at Alton. First, Eddie Bennett, Alton right-hander, set his opponents down without a safety. It was the first no-hit tilt of the season. Then the game was played in 1.08, which is quite a mark for a complete game.

While the Ben Millers put seven men on bases against Bennett, four on passes and three through errors, so effectively did the Alton right-hander pitch that not a man got past first. Worden of the Millers allowed six hits and the two runs off him came in the first inning.

The White Rose and Mount Vernon clubs remain in a tie for first place. Both captured their fifth straight in the second half of the season. The White Roses blanked the Wilkes-Chippmanna, 4-0, while Mount Vernon defeated Collinsville, 9-4. In the other contest, the Tri-cities swamped the Maxwell, 18-1. The winners scored 12 runs in the sixth inning.

How Petroleum Helps Fill the Nation's Bread-Basket

FEW of those who consume farm products realize the extent to which the price of such commodities is affected by automotive machinery.

The fact that the cost of field work is reduced by the use of tractors is well known. The fact that the farmer's time is conserved by the use of automobiles is a matter of common knowledge.

Now comes the National Automobile Association in its Year Book of 1922 with the statement that the cost of hauling products in horse-driven wagons from the farm to shipping points averages 30c per ton mile for wheat and 35c for corn, while over the same roads the cost of hauling by motor truck is only 15c per ton mile.

That the intelligent farmer in the 10 states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) realizes the efficiency of power transportation is shown by the fact that he owns and operates 1,112,203 automobiles and 46,582 motor trucks. These are distributed as follows:

	Motor Cars On Farms	Motor Trucks On Farms
Indiana	102,122	8,671
Illinois	189,090	6,154
Michigan	82,487	4,886
Wisconsin	98,825	4,044
Minnesota	107,824	3,808
Iowa	177,558	9,910
Missouri	86,229	5,059
North Dakota	47,711	774
South Dakota	58,852	4,858
Kansas	111,052	8,928

These cars and trucks can be operated on the same basis as similar equipment in towns and cities because the Standard Oil Company, (Indiana) through its vast distribution system delivers its products into the farmer's storage tank under the same conditions as to the city dweller having similar equipment.

In thus rendering a service to the farmer this Company renders a service to every individual who consumes farm products.

THREE BENEFITS GIVEN FOR FREE MILK FUND

Lemonade Stand and Two Shows
Net $26 for Post-Dispatch Benevolent Work.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Previously acknowledged $323.95
Lemonade stand, Delmar and Hamilton 14.00
Show and bazar, 4615 Enright 10.44
Show, 4868 Easton avenue 2.00
Total $335.39

Three benefits for the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund were reported Saturday. A lemonade stand at Delmar and Hamilton netted $14. Children in charge were: Frank Sutmeler, Eugene Cafferata, Richard Meyer and Carl Krumenacher.

A show and bazar at 4615 Enright avenue earned $10.44 for the fund. Anna Cohen, Sol Cohen and Esther Powers were the workers.

Five friends of the babies gave a show at 4868 Easton avenue which brought $2 for the fund. Their names were Delbert and Edmund Hindle, George and Matthew Lebrecht and Ernest Kubusch.

Other Sources of Fund.
Joe Glass, Ben Muchnick and Sam Shanker gave a show at 2949 Thomas street on Aug. 4 and cleared $4 for the fund.

William Clark, Peyton Clark, Bill Williams and Monroe Dieter Allen sold Grape Bouquet at 5682 Cates avenue and took in $3 for the Milk and Ice Fund.

The following Southampton children collected $3 by giving a parade: Audrey Anchutz, Rose Mary Gearhart, Jans Gearhart, Florence O'Brien, Mary Margaret O'Brien, Norma Miller, William Meyer, Arthur Meyer, George Reinhardt, Henry Harer, Vincent O'Brien, Philip Marsh, Oliver Meyer, Lester Reinhardt, Melvin Meyer, Estelle Walters and John Simms.

Show on Gamble Street.
A show at 2812 Gamble street brought $1.29. The following children managed the affair: Abe and Morris Maas, Sylvia Meyer, Louis Goldstein and Esther Silverman.

Helen Jackson, 600 Park avenue, Mount Vernon, Ill., sent $5, a similar amount came from O. A. Shepardon of Webster Groves and Beanie Crocker, 1934 Wash street, gave $1.

NEW RUSSIAN CHURCH IS SUPPORTING SOVIET REGIME

Monasteries and Monks Will Be Done Away With and Bishops Urged to Marry.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1933.)
MOSCOW, Aug. 14.—A new church, which will support the soviet regime, is taking over control of all Russian ecclesiastical affairs, led by Bishop Antonin and Anit, plans to oust most of the old bishops, abolish the ikon and elaborate ceremonies and do away with monasteries and monks. It will urge all its new bishops to marry. Leaders of this movement are now meeting in Moscow.

Antonin and Anit have a document from the ousted Patriarch Tikhon giving them control of the church. Apparently the soviet government is ignoring them, but actually it makes no secret that it welcomes their aid, as the movement checkmates the old monarchical priests.

It has been decided to support all soviet institutions that conform to "Christian communism."

The highest ecclesiastics will be the bishops and a democratic constituent assembly will run church affairs. Lay delegates to this assembly will play a considerable part.

Listeners

From Sarnia, Ontario. I was greatly surprised to hear you so clear and loud this evening. All good wishes for success to your station.

STANLEY J. SMITH, 351 Russell street, Sarnia, Ontario, Canada.

From Lakeland, Fla. Your broadcasts reach us with wonderful strength and clearness.

GEORGE B. WALKER, Box 230, Lakeland, Fla.

From Kasson, Minn. Your last night's concert (Aug. 2) was a wonder. I put my loud speaker in the window while "The Waters of Minnetonka" was being sung, and people inside a building two blocks away heard it plainly.

WALTER ANDERSON, Kasson, Minn.

From Chisholm, Minn. We receive your concerts regularly.

H. H. STEVENS, 226 W. Walnut St., Chisholm, Minn.

From Emporia, Kan. I tuned in my new receiving set last night and was greatly surprised and elated to get the Post-Dispatch.

L. A. LOWTHER, Supt. Emporia City Schools, Emporia, Kan.

From La Salle, Ill. We wish to thank you for the excellent programs being broadcasted by you each afternoon and evening.

A. T. HICKET, La Salle Radio Shop, La Salle, Ill.

From Hartshorne, Ok. We appreciate your concerts very greatly. They are remarkably strong and clear and are enjoyed by many here.

C. C. NULL, Attorney at Law, Hartshorne, Okla.

From Vaughan, Minn. Thank you very much for the splendid program you sent out last night (Aug. 2).

ALBERT C. PRESLEY, Vaughan, Minn.

From Tecumseh, Neb. We are greatly enjoying your broadcasting programs.

F. B. PACKWOOD, "The Willows," Tecumseh, Neb.

When Baby Cries Look for Skin Irritation

Remember that a baby's skin is exceedingly delicate and that nerves are practically on the surface. Then consider what this pea-like skin is exposed to—swaddling, the friction of damp coverings, prickly heat, diaper and teething rash. Science has at last found a way to protect Baby from all this skin suffering. Kora-Konia is a marvelous medicinal powder, soft and gentle as the skin it protects, but wonderful in its healing power. It forms a waterproof, velvety film which adheres to the skin for hours, protecting while it heals. It takes all the stinging out of prickly heat and removes the skin to normal condition. It does so prevents chafing. Rash disappears. Don't let Baby suffer another day. Get Kora-Konia at any druggist's.

LATE SESSION ON

Bonds Are Dull With Speculative Issues Following Stocks—French Exchange Has Lower Range.

By Leonard Wire From The New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"With the railroad labor dispute apparently deadlocked, the expected announcement of a basis for the settlement of the coal strike again delayed, it was only natural that the demand for stocks should be less insistent than during last week when prospects for the settlement of the coal strike appeared brighter. Until the closing hour of the session of the Stock Exchange, however, it was lack of demand rather than any pressure on the selling side which ruled the markets. Towards the close a considerable number of shares were offered in larger volume than the market was able to accept at the prevailing levels. There were few new issues, and the bond market was dull with the speculative issues declining in sympathy with the movement of the foreign market irregular. The new issue on call loans on the Stock Exchange was fixed at 4 per cent, but at 11:30 call money was marked down to 3 1/2 per cent and shortly after 1 o'clock the rate was again lowered to 3 per cent.

Weakness in Exchange.
In the foreign exchange market weakness in the leading continental currencies was a conspicuous feature, and this was evidently a reflection of the anxiety that has followed the unfavorable turn in the negotiations at the reparations conference in London. The preliminary budget of the French Government also contributed to the weakness. French francs, which had been offered in the New York market, and there dropped to 136.00, declined 15 points to 134.50. Sterling, however, remained firm at 144.40, and Czechoslovak crowns rose to 14.75, a cent, and marks to 1.40, a cent. The dollar, however, remained at 27.00. This represents a net gain of a cent for the latter since the middle of March. Canadian dollars at 93.87 cents also reached a new high record price.

Coal Production Figures.
The output of bituminous coal, according to the Geological Survey, reached 4,376,000 tons in the week ending Aug. 12, or about 100,000 tons more than for the preceding week. This increase is attributed to better traffic conditions on the railways serving the nonunion fields. It will be recalled that the roads in other territory recently closed to traffic in retaliation of additional coal forces for the roads serving the nonunion mine districts. The output, however, remained about 136,000 tons, a slight increase from the output of about 135,000 tons consisting of small sized coal dredged from the rivers and ports from Philadelphia that a resumption of the wage conference in that city would soon be resumed. It was stated a feeling of settlement of the trouble in the anthracite regions would soon be affected, and there were also indications of confidence in an early solution of the disputes in the union bituminous fields.

WRECK REACH 10

Other Persons Hurt, Six Seriously, in Crash of Truck and Train.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—The wreckage of a passenger train No. 107 on the Minneapolis & St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway was continuing today. Ten are dead. The debris of one of three wrecked coaches remained to be removed. The main line which was blocked for 24 hours, was cleared yesterday. Nine of the dead had been identified. Forty were injured, and seriously.

The wreck occurred when an oil truck driven by Fred Lamar was struck by the train against a switch and crashed into the engine of a freight train standing on a side track. The freight engine was turned over and three passenger coaches split the switch and plowed into the freight engine and the box car. The trainmen said they had warned Lamar of the oncoming passenger but that he did not heed them.

The dead are: Myllikangas, Annandale, Albert Gallner, Adrain, Minn.; Arne Thompson, Annandale; Edmund Ulrich, Harrison, Wis.; Fred Lamar, Maple Lake, Minn.; Robert Becker, St. Paul, Minn.; C. W. Wallace, Minneapolis, Minn.; A. Clark, Eden Valley, Minn., and an unidentified man.

The two injured here are Christopher Olson of Minneapolis, who is being cared for at a home here, and Fred Schuyler, University of Minnesota medical student, whose home is in Payroll, Wash.

Chris Wallace of Minneapolis, engineer of the freight train, was killed so severely that he died several hours later. His fireman, L. W. Johnson of Minneapolis, was buried under an avalanche of coal but man.

Chicago was one of the seriously injured. He suffered a possible skull fracture.

SEPTEMBER WHEAT

ATURE OF GRAIN TRADE

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—The feature of the grain trade in September is the near panic decline in the price of wheat. The decline was due to a combination of factors, including a heavy crop in the North and a shortage in the South.

Eggs and Poultry

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—The feature of the egg and poultry market is the heavy demand for eggs. The price of eggs has risen sharply, and the price of poultry has also risen.

VEGETABLES

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—The feature of the vegetable market is the heavy demand for vegetables. The price of vegetables has risen sharply, and the price of meat has also risen.

YORK SUGAR

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—The feature of the sugar market is the heavy demand for sugar. The price of sugar has risen sharply, and the price of other commodities has also risen.

YORK COTTON

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14.—The feature of the cotton market is the heavy demand for cotton. The price of cotton has risen sharply, and the price of other commodities has also risen.

BEATEN CANDIDATE THINKS 4456 VOTES NOT SO BAD FOR START

Edward P. Stenson, Writing From "Salt Creek, Mo.," Sends Out Cheerful Letter in Morning Envelope.

A cheerfully lugubrious letter in a morning envelope has been sent to his friends and supporters by Edward P. Stenson of 1923 Hickory street, defeated candidate for the Republican nomination for the Legislature from the Third (St. Louis) district.

It is dated "Salt Creek, Mo., 55" and explains his failure to get the nomination by the fact that the other candidates received more votes than he. But then, 4456 votes is not so bad for a beginner, he thinks, and he wants to make it plain that he appreciates the support.

He thinks that the man worth while is the man who can smile when beaten by a mile and finds comfort in the fact that "he who fights and runs away will live to run another day," which same he promises to do, in the hope of better luck next time.

"This Nation's Growth Is Due To The Railroads"

Said The Late Franklin K. Lane

"This country cannot grow without adequate transportation facilities. The railroad is our common highway; it is not a concern in which the farmer and the manufacturer alone are interested; it is essential to the commercial life of our people, almost as necessary as the land itself, for we have grown up as a people to be physically dependent upon our railroads. No other people are so bound up as we in economic inter-dependence. No one community in all this land lives to itself. We have grown as railroads were built. We have made a community of a continent."

EASTERN MISSOURI INDUSTRIES ADVISED TO CONSERVE COAL

No Coal Moving From Kentucky—Only One Line Plant Put on Priority List.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 14.—It is imperative that all industries in Eastern Missouri conserve their fuel supply as no coal is moving out of the Kentucky fields, which have been their source of supply since production ceased in the Illinois fields, Chairman McIndoe of the Missouri Coal Distribution Commission today announced. This information came in a telegram from E. J. Wallace of St. Louis who had been sent by McIndoe to Hopkinton, Ky., to ascertain conditions prevailing at the mines. He reported that a strike of Louisville & Nashville trainmen had shut off all movement of fuel.

Production in Western Missouri consisted of 75 cars of coal a day throughout last week it was announced.

The Federal fuel distributor has refused to put five line manufacturers on the fuel priority list to assure the St. Louis Water Department of 50 tons of hydrate of lime daily, but has offered to make such provision for one such manufacturer.

During 1921, the POST-DISPATCH printed 752,915 "WANT" Ads—207,190 more than the THREE other St. Louis newspapers COMBINED.

The Big Sunday Post-Dispatch Again Leads Both Others Combined.

Again yesterday, as usual, the Big Sunday Post-Dispatch, alone, carried far more advertising than BOTH other Sunday newspapers COMBINED.

YESTERDAY'S RECORD FOLLOWS:

Table with 2 columns: Category and Amount. POST-DISPATCH alone: 122,360. GLOBE-DEMOCRAT and STAR COMBINED: 102,600. POST-DISPATCH excess over both: 19,760.

Home Merchants' Advertising

National Advertising

Real Estate and Want Advertising

More Circulation—Greater Results

The Sunday Post-Dispatch alone has more Paid St. Louis Circulation and more Paid Total Circulation than the Globe-Democrat and the Star—COMBINED.

HOLDUP MEN IN STOLEN AUTO HAVE BUSY NIGHT

Police Telephones Kept Buzzing
With Reports of Robberies
Early Sunday Morning.

Two men robbed Elmer Lebee of 2117 Kraus street of $8, his watch and his Ford automobile on the Jefferson "Barracks" road Sunday at 12:30 a. m., and thereafter, until 5 a. m., police telephones were kept buzzing with reports of similar robberies in various parts of the city in each of which the Ford and the same two men appeared as principals.

Those robbed and the articles and amounts taken were: Harry Getz, 2305 Arsenal street, at Virginia avenue and Idaho street, watch and $4; Charles Meyers, 3750 Marine avenue, near his home, $4.35 and a watch; Charles Ogil, 4211A Cleveland avenue, on Accomac street, between Ohio and California avenues, $8 and a watch; Samuel Sambroski, 2495 South Twelfth street, on Sidney street near Broadway, $4 and a watch; Albert Hager, 4301 Minnesota avenue, at California avenue and Miami street, $4.65, and William A. Burnett, 2225 Park avenue, $8 and a watch.

The robbers varied their tactics in the case of Burnett. It was quite light at Thurnham and Shenandoah avenues, where they stopped him, so they compelled him to get into the car and drove to Shenandoah and Alfred avenues, where they robbed him and ejected him from the machine.

Violin Valued at $2500 Taken.
Men described as the same pair, but with no evidence of their use of the automobile, stopped Joseph Zuznek of 4608 Olive street on Eleventh street, near Rutger street, and took $15, a watch and a violin which Zuznek told police he valued at $2500.

The automobile taken from Lebee on the Barracks road was found at 5 a. m. at Thirteenth and Lynch streets, its gasoline tank empty.

The police had reports during the same hours of two other robberies by a second group which included three men and three women riding in an automobile. Then men alighted from the car while the women looked on at Euclid and Florissant avenues. They robbed Robert O'Leary of 4755W Florissant of $5; his brother, Daniel, of $30, and Benjamin Gilman of 1471 North Euclid avenue of $4, and drove away.

Thirty minutes later the same automobile carrying the three men and three women stopped at Taylor and Florissant avenues and the three men, alighting, robbed Otto Pfeiffer of 2742 Olive street, of $3.70.

Robber by Chance Acquaintances.
Joseph R. Broyles of Grandview, Ok., staying at Hotel Jefferson, accepted the offer of two chance acquaintances to find him some 4 per cent beer. He was taken to a house in the 4800 block on Delmar boulevard where he had some beer. The men were accompanying him away from the house when on Newstead avenue, between Washington boulevard and Olive street, they forced him into an alley and robbed him of $40 and a diamond ring he valued at $700. Broyles led the police back to the Delmar boulevard house, where a man who appeared to be in charge was arrested. There were several other men in the house, but a search disclosed no beer.

Earl P. Burman, 22, Dies When His Machine Hits Another.

By the Associated Press.
JACKSON, Mich., Aug. 14.—Earl P. Burman, 22, of Detroit, died last night in a hospital, the result of injuries suffered late in the afternoon on the Jackson speedway at the fair grounds in a collision. Traveling 55 miles an hour, he ran into another machine. His car was hurled into the air and he never regained consciousness. Burman had been racing for six years.

Robert Burman, brother of Earl, was killed in 1916 at Corona, Cal., in a similar accident.

GRIFFITH'S DEATH
A CALAMITY, SAYS
MICHAEL COLLINS

Military Leader Declares It Is Too Late for De Valera to Honor Passing of a Great Patriot.

DUBLIN MOURNS AS BODY LIES IN STATE

Great Crowd Follows Cortege to City Hall—King George Sends Message of Sympathy.

By the Associated Press.
DUBLIN, Aug. 14.—Michael Collins, interviewed today at the field headquarters of the national army, termed Arthur Griffith's death a calamity for Ireland, and said it was too late for Eamonn de Valera and his followers to honor the passing of a great patriot by accepting the terms the Free State Government has offered to achieve the unity of Ireland.

The commander in chief added that he would continue his military work until the trouble was ended.

A great crowd followed the cortege which yesterday conveyed the body of Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann Cabinet, to the city hall, where it will lie in state under a guard of Free State troopers. The funeral is expected to take place next Wednesday.

The death of Griffith has had a stunning effect upon a majority of the people of Dublin who recognized in him the greatest force behind the Anglo-Irish treaty. Prayers were said in all the Catholic churches today for the repose of Griffith and there were many signs of mourning throughout the city. Numerous expressions of sympathy have been received by Mrs. Griffith, among them messages from King George, Irish political leaders and the Irish bishops. After tendering his sympathy, the message of King George added:

"In spite of his untimely death, I pray that Ireland may soon receive the peace for which he labored." The Irish Government has issued a statement expressing its firm determination to carry on the life work of Griffith "to achieve which he so nearly realized."

REPUBLICAN TROOPS
CAPTURE DUNDALK

By the Associated Press.
BELFAST, Aug. 14.—A large force of Republicans entered Dundalk at 3 a. m. today, taking the national guard station completely by surprise. The attack was successful and the town is now isolated, with Republican troops patrolling the streets.

The Anne street police headquarters, which was occupied by the Nationalists, was the first objective to be stormed and taken. The garrison was captured.

The jail was the next to fall, and all prisoners, mostly Republicans, were liberated. Those were supplied with arms and joined their rescuers in the attack on the town, in which bombs were freely used. The railway station and general postoffice were taken in succession.

The inhabitants, especially Free State sympathizers, fled.

Conditions in Cork Reported About Normal.

By the Associated Press.
DUBLIN, Aug. 14.—The latest advice received from Cork are to the effect that, with the exception of the postal service, conditions are normal. During the burning of the barracks and other buildings several of the irregular troops were entrapped and had to be rescued by means of ladders.

At Queenstown there are the first signs of devastation caused by the retreating irregulars. Only the blackened shell remained of Admiralty House, while the Royal Naval Hospital had been completely burned. A mile or two up Passage West, heading to Cork, could be seen the protruding portions of vessels the rebels had sunk to block the entrances to Cork harbor.

CHESTER, Pa., Aug. 14.—Gov. Sprout of Pennsylvania has announced that he will go to Washington today, where he "hoped to attend" the swearing in of Maj. David A. Reed of Pittsburg as United States Senator to succeed the late William E. Crow of Uniontown. Maj. Reed has not been appointed yet, but the Governor said he would be named immediately upon his return from Wyoming. He is expected Wednesday. Gov. Sprout left last night for Richmond, Va.

WHAT OF GERMANY?
How Is It Standing the Strain, Playing the Game and Reacting to the Turbulent Conditions of the Times?

A FIRST-HAND CHRONICLE OF FACTS AND INCIDENTAL OBSERVATIONS

By Herbert Bayard Swope, Executive Editor of the New York World.

FOREWORD

MOST visitors to Europe interpret it in the terms of their own pursuits. Their reactions are directly related to their interests. If a cotton man cannot sell his commodity over there, or is unable to get the money for what he has sold, he is liable to assume that all Europe is in a hopeless mess. The same applies to the conclusions of the bankers, the economists, the socialists and the politicians. In the case of the journalist, his concern should be with the truth alone, and it is his business to interpret without prejudice the facts as he finds them. So this exposition, being a literal transcription of things seen and heard, has at least the value that is inherent in an objective, unbiased chronicle.

In valuing any such record as that which follows, the identity and experience of the observer are important factors. Herbert Bayard Swope is the executive editor of the New York World and he has just returned from Europe. His capacity as a reporter is emphasized by the fact that he was awarded the Pulitzer prize for meritorious newspaper work in 1917. His "Inside the German Empire," written after a long stay in Germany, while the war raged, indicated thorough acquaintance with its affairs; he was an associate director and the assistant to the chairman of the United States War Industries Board; he represented the World as its chief correspondent at the Peace Conference and was chairman of the American Committee on Publicity appointed by this conference. So he has had every possible opportunity to acquire a knowledge of economic, political and geographical facts that bear on an interpretation of present conditions. He has not attempted here a thesis. The article is a series of impressions lifted from the writer's notebook.

In the order of his travels, the notes divided themselves naturally into three subdivisions—Germany, France, England—and this order has been preserved. Germany is today's topic. Tomorrow, France. Wednesday, England.

The standard of living in Germany is steadily declining. Salary earners and possessors of small, fixed incomes are the chief victims. The ex-tremes of the social group—the laborer and the capitalist—are the best off. The laborer insists upon a readjustment whenever the mark falls to a new level; the capitalist finds it measures worth of his securities in terms of gold, and to him, therefore, the probable rise in the value of the mark is not so pressing, since he can be indifferent as to whether or not his holding are rated at 100 marks to the dollar or 1,000 marks to the dollar—it is the dollar standard with which he is concerned. Practically all Germany lives from hand to mouth. It has been impossible to regulate the cost of living, although the municipalities have been successful in legislating against exorbitant increases in rent. Most once a week is a treat for the average family.

Houses are being stripped of plate, linen, ornaments, furniture and books. The intellectuals are especially affected. It is commonplace to see women of delicate breeding doing menial work.

There is little hope in Germany. The minds of the people are confused. One fact is sure, the foreigners who come over raise prices. Another says that were it not for the foreigners who bring their good money to Germany, the German cataplexy would be less avertible.

The Germans believe they cannot pay the reparations bill. It must be added, in the interest of truth, that they do not want to pay it, and would not if they could. Dr. Rathenau said as much to me a few days before he was killed. The Germans feel that the present status of the reparations has put their head in a noose; that the allies, and especially France, are holding a blank check on which the more they pay the more they will have to pay.

But even with fixed reparations in a heavily reduced amount, it must not be thought that this evil condition would be immediately relieved, for this would bring about the stabilization of the mark, with results that at first would be serious. The first consequence would be dislocation of industry due to the inability of Germany to sell cheaply in the foreign markets. Hence, unemployment would follow, since production would temporarily cease. Also the labor wage would be increased to purchase as much as it does under inflation, since a shrinkage would come before any reduction in the cost of living would be apparent.

The Germans feel they will be damned if they do and damned if they don't. Every German statesman apprehends the grave danger of bread riots and social revolution under present conditions; they fear that any effect in the event of stabilization.

In Germany, Great Britain is easily the most popular of the foreign nations. France is regarded as seeking only the destruction of Germany. America is considered to be false to its promises. The Germans say they were led to accept the harshness of the armistice and the peace treaty by the assurance that America would stand by the proper interests of the nation were safeguarded—that Germany was to be a ward of the League of Nations until she could qualify for membership. Instead, Germany feels that the nations have

HEAVY PENALTY
ON SUGAR USERS
WORK OF SMOOT

Housewife Will Have to Pay 6 or 7 Cents More Because He Failed in Four Beet Interest Moves.

FIFTH SCHEME, TARIFF INCREASE, SUCCEEDED

First Plan Was Effort to Get Cuba to Limit Crop to 2,500,000 Tons, Promising Lower Duty.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The American housewife is to be penalized, through an increase from 7 to 13 or 14 cents per pound in the cost of sugar, because United States Senator Reed Smoot of Utah failed in four schemes to reimburse the beet sugar barons of America for three years' losses.

Every other user of sugar in the United States, whose annual consumption is nearly 5,000,000 tons, is to be made to share this heavy impost.

S Senator Smoot's fifth and presumably final scheme to salvage the beet sugar interests was partially consummated in the Senate Aug. 8. On that day, by the narrow margin of two votes the tariff on Cuban sugar was increased from $1.60 to $1.84 per 100 pounds and from $2 to $2.31 on sugar imported from elsewhere.

By inducing the Senate to back up the tariff on sugar to a figure not reached since the administration of Gen. Grant, Senator Smoot carried out a threat made to Cuba last January.

Senator Smoot's Message.

Using as his emissary Major-General Enoch H. Crowder, President Harding's personal representative in Cuba, Senator Smoot transmitted to President Zayas of the island republic substantially this message:

"Limit sugar, your most important and practically your sole crop, to 2,500,000 tons. If you do this we will drop the tariff on your sugar from $1.60 to $1.40. If you do not get this you will get a terrifically high tariff."

Cuba refused to limit her crop so that a shortage of sugar might occur and thus enable the beet sugar great demands upon Cuba for this supply and it is calculated there are now not more than 200,000 tons left to take care of the requirements of the world, including this country.

This, it appears, the lack of supply and demand continued to operate, despite Senator Smoot's abortive attempt to regulate it, by congressional enactment.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who demanded an investigation before the Senate last week, called the effort to compel limitation of the Cuban crop "one of the greatest blunders in the history of our country." From the New York World and Post-Dispatch have obtained the story of many heretofore undisclosed entries upon this page.

The women work in the fields from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. at night. Shaved heads among the men are rapidly becoming national physical characteristics. The explanation is obvious. It saves hair cutting expenses.

The government has limited railroad commutation to fixed sums in these sections where the trains are patronized by the working classes.

On the outskirts of each of the larger cities there are to be seen, on unimproved property, little plots on which garden truck is raised and on which stand little one-room "pleasure" houses. The workers are permitted to cultivate this ground for their own benefit.

In the larger cities every well-to-do family has to take in at least one or two poor students as boarders, either free or for nominal sums.

Germany is a shell without meat; a hive of industry without the honey of saving.

The German attitude toward the Kaiser varies, but on the whole, the bulk of the people seem to think of him as one who had his opportunity for service and lost it. There is a pronounced feeling that he should have gone down with his ship—that he should have died at the head of the Kaiser's army. They see him as devoting the remainder of his existence to an attempt to justify it. They talk of the Kaiser of the period before 1914 with veneration; they speak of the Kaiser at Doran with contempt.

PRESIDENT INSISTS THAT SHOPMEN ACCEPT PLAN
Harding Is Said to Be Developing a Fighting Mood—Reply of Railroad Executives Eminently Satisfactory to Him.

By DAVID LAWRENCE, Special Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1922.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—President Harding considers the reply of the railroad executives to his latest peace proposal to be eminently satisfactory. He will not budge an inch from his position and no matter what happens in the crisis now developing the President will insist upon his proposal being accepted by the shopmen. It is the final compromise, namely, that the railways take back strikers and give them their former positions where vacancies exist, or other jobs as they may be formerly received, if their old positions have been filled.

Mr. Harding feels that the situation has reached a grave point. The union leaders have told him that they would bring the executives to their knees within a week. This means a spread of the transportation tie-up and more suffering to the public. Will the President permit it? The chief difficulty in answering that question is the fact that both railroad executives and union leaders do not think Mr. Harding has the power to compel the men to end the controversy. They know, as does Mr. Harding, that a request of Congress for specific power would mean endless delay as elections are approaching and members are unwilling to get into a labor controversy.

But in the absence of a real show of authority the strike will continue indefinitely. That's why the next move in the situation inevitably involves coercion. The telegram sent by the Attorney-General to Needles, Cal., the text of which was published Sunday morning, is significant. Daugherty pointed out to the United States District Attorney that they should prosecute any persons guilty of a conspiracy to interrupt interstate commerce. The foundation for his telegram is the famous act of 1890 known as the Sherman Anti-Trust Law.

This is a broad statute and makes it a crime for any one to conspire with any one else to interrupt interstate commerce. It has been used chiefly to prevent monopolies in production which are in restraint of trade, yet it embraces any act which tends to restrain commerce. Labor unions have always felt sensitive about this law. They tried under the Taft administration and succeeded under the Wilson administration in persuading Congress to pass a law exempting funds appropriated for anti-trust prosecutions to be used against labor unions and they had as their allies in that fight farmers' organizations as well.

Little doubt prevails in the minds of Government lawyers that the act of 1890 could be used in an emergency to secure indictments against carriers or union leaders who may have been guilty of conspiracy to restrain interstate commerce. Such a show of authority, it is contended, might suffice in itself to bring peace in the rail strike and might establish once and for all the principle that while individuals may have a right to strike they cannot combine to cause a strike on transportation systems engaged in interstate commerce.

Harding in Fighting Mood.

Mr. Harding cannot allow the railroad and the shopmen to fight it out any longer. He knows that such a course means danger to lives and incalculable damage to the American business. Up to this time he has dealt patiently with those who conferred with him. He is said to have developed a fighting mood today. The shopmen are running a big risk in prolonging the strike. The President feels that the railway executives have accepted his proposal. He counts on the shopmen to do the same because the points in dispute are left to the Railway Labor Board to decide after the men go back to work.

"Bringing" Cuba to cut down her crop.

Furthermore, Hoover, presumably with the knowledge of President Harding, came to New York in December, 1921, and urged big bankers to exert pressure on independent sugar refiners so that one of Senator Smoot's four schemes destined to raise prices for beet sugar would prevail. These bankers held the paper of the sugar refiners.

In contrast with this mission of Hoover, Rubino recalls that when the Secretary of Commerce was Food Administrator he urged and encouraged Americans to invest heavily in the Cuban sugar industry. Due to his efforts, Rubino contends, America controls virtually two-thirds of the Cuban sugar industry, with $1,000,000,000 invested.

Backing of Trust Charged.

S Senator Smoot was pictured by Rubino as backing at every turn the Sugar Trust's proposals for limiting the Cuban output so that the beet sugar industry, largely controlled by the trust, might jump prices because of the consequent sugar shortage. Senator Smoot assumed to speak on various occasions for President Harding, for Secretary of State Hughes, for Congress and even for the War Finance Board, charged Rubino.

"I know of no man in the United States who assumed such power," was Rubino's comment. "I doubt if President Harding thinks he himself possesses it."

In last week's debates in the Senate Senator Smoot said he owned 440 shares in the Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. worth more than $1300. Rubino's report was that Senator Smoot failed to reveal that the Mormon church, of which he is "trusted counselor and adviser," owned 440 shares in the Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. worth more than $1300. Rubino said, was "agitated and angry," and exclaimed:

"You have cut off your nose to spite your face. Now you are going to get a higher tariff duty!"

Gen. Crowder was disclosed as being more than a mere personal representative and observer in Cuba for President Harding. He "virtually runs the republic and has taken an active part in Cuban affairs, political and financial."

He even brought Senator Partida of Cuba to Senator Smoot in January last when the Cuban Senator pleaded in vain for a lower sugar tariff. He did not take Senator Partida to President Harding or anyone else, Rubino pointed out, because Senator Smoot seemed to be representing the whole country.

Rubino made it appear to be more than a coincidence that before Gen. Crowder offered on behalf of Senator Smoot a low tariff to Cuba as a "bribe" for limitation of its sugar crop, C. S. Hamlin, legislative agent of the beet-sugar growers of the United States, went to Cuba and secured her Government an identical offer, which was turned down.

CONFERENCE OF ALLIED PREMIERS, FRUITLESS, ENDS

No Announcement of Progress Toward Solution of Reparations Problem Made; Delegations Leaving London.

GERMANY'S AUG. 15 PAYMENT POSTPONED

Commission's Decision at Paris Result of Failure to Give Berlin Reply on Moratorium.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 14.—The conference of allied Premiers, which opened in London a week ago, came to an end this afternoon without any announcement of progress toward an agreement concerning the German reparations question having been made.

The French and Italian delegations will leave London tomorrow morning. Since Premier Theunis of Belgium did not attend the final meeting at 5 o'clock this afternoon, it was believed that he had already left. It became known late today that Foreign Minister Schanner and Signor Giannini of Italy visited Prime Minister Lloyd George at Chequers court yesterday in a vain attempt at mediation.

A meeting of the British Cabinet was held this afternoon attended by all members now in London. The session was concluded about 5 o'clock, at which hour the Italian, Japanese, French and Belgian representatives arrived for the plenary session of the conference.

Germany's Aug. 15 Payment Is Postponed.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Aug. 14.—The Reparations Commission this morning decided to postpone the Aug. 15 payment of 50,000,000 gold marks by Germany until a decision had been reached by the allied governments. They were then meeting in London. This action was taken by the commission in view of the fact Germany was promised a decision regarding a moratorium today, which was apparently impossible.

The decision to leave in suspense the August payment was taken unanimously after the members of the commission had been instructed by their respective Governments.

The impression in commission circles was that the Premiers would grand a short moratorium, even though they did not reach a complete understanding and this reprieve could continue until another meeting had arrived at a comprehensive settlement.

FORMER DELEGATE SAYS NEW COURT PLAN WOULD COST MORE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 14.—The proposed new judicial system drafted by the Judiciary Committee of the Constitution Convention was attacked in debate today by A. Carter of Mexico, one of the former delegates. Carter opposes the proposed system on the assumption that it would cost more than the present because it contemplates abolition of Justices of the Peace and because it provides for a new set of courts to be known as "county courts" which he objects. Carter indicated that modification of the report by amendment would satisfy him.

The system of judicial procedure in Missouri has been too rigid and inflexible, and the new system as planned will go far toward curing the condition. A. T. Rumm of Jefferson City declared. He cited cases where the State Supreme Court had nullified an indictment because the word "the" required by the Constitution had been left out. He asserted that probate courts should be presided over by Judges who know the law, instead of by laymen as at present.

NATIONAL INDUSTRIAL COURT PROPOSED BY GOV. ALLEN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Aug. 14.—Gov. Henry J. Allen of Kansas, in an address to a radio audience last night proposed a plan of settling industrial strikes—a national court of industrial relations. He said that at this time should urge Congress to amend the Federal Labor Board act so as to give the Labor Board power to enforce its decision, the Governor declared.

Assailing labor leaders as "hard-faced, soft-handed secretaries of war," Gov. Allen last night also spoke at the Redpath-Horner Chautauque. "We have too many secretaries of war for labor," he said. "The business of becoming a labor leader is a great industry today. There are 150,000 secretaries of war for labor, drawing $40,000,000 a year from the pockets of the laboring men."

Read Crime News From Texas.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I READ with interest your editorial in the Post-Dispatch of Aug. 2, entitled "The End of the Republic," as well as several previous articles in which you vigorously attacked the Ku Klux Klan. In several papers published at other places I have read letters and articles highly praising the Klan, and consequently I am just a little at sea where to find the truth. For the information of myself, and possibly others who are equally curious, will you kindly answer the following questions, which may clarify some of the more obscure points?

1. If the Catholics have an organization to which Protestants are not admitted; if the Jews have an organization to which Gentiles are not admitted; and if the negroes have an organization to which the whites are not admitted, do you consider it wrong for the white Protestants of America to have an organization to which neither of the above-mentioned may belong?

2. Upon what do you base your assertions that the Klan is founded upon principles of religious and race hatred, and the upholding of legal courts with mob violence? The alleged oath of the Klan, as published in the Post-Dispatch, contained no intimation of such things.

3. If you can prove that the Klan has at any time supplanted the legal courts with mob violence, is there not a legal remedy by which you can force the Klan to disband?

4. Do you believe that a bill requiring the education of all children at the public schools is religious intolerance, when the free public school is one of the fundamental principles of our Constitution, and when the teaching of any sectarian doctrine in the public school is strictly forbidden?

5. According to the alleged oath of the Klan as published in the Post-Dispatch, members of that organization must take an oath of allegiance to the United States above all other sovereignties or powers. If you believe the Klan is un-American, do you believe that the organization in fact is not one of those who owe their first allegiance to sovereignty outside of the United States is American?

6. If you were actuated by no ulterior motives in publishing the ritual of the Klan, do you not believe that the ritual of all other secret organizations in this country should be published, that the public may know the real principles which each stands for, and the real oath which the members of each must take?

I have asked these questions in all good faith and I trust you will grant me the courtesy of answering them. I am sure there are others like myself, whose minds are not clear on the subject, and who would appreciate an unprejudiced discussion.

CHAS. KINCHELOE.

Nevertheless, They Did It.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I SEE that you have given the Republicans credit for nominating Reed, I'm sorry, for I had flattered myself that my vote had helped to do that, and I'm not a Republican either. Now isn't it a fact that this election proved the faith which the Democrats have in their senator, in spite of the hope which the daily papers have given us? So, come on, be a good sport, and boost Reed as you have previously been boosting Long.

DIXIE LONG.

As the Miner Sees It.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SPEAKING as another private in the ranks of the coal miners, must say what I heartily approve of the stand President John L. Lewis is taking in handling the coal strike. Although I am not overburdened with cash, I for one, would willingly carry this strike on until victory is reached, if I never dig any more coal.

As far as poverty is concerned, a coal miner knows nothing else but poverty and hardships. It's just as easy for us miners to put up with misery out here in the mines as it is for you to use our only weapon of defense against the inhuman and heartless attacks of the coal barons as it is for us to be driven back to double misery down in the dungeons with unbearable working conditions and starvation wages.

If any are dissatisfied with fighting for our rights and wish to go to work in the mines, let them go right ahead; they are already guaranteed ample protection. As far as being out of work is concerned, we are used to that; we only work when the good, free-hearted operators want us to, strike or no strike. Some can stick around six or seven months waiting for the whistles to blow when there is no strike, but in case the majority of the miners stop and demand an understanding some few cry about our leaders, and try to form the impression in the public mind that the leaders are to blame.

I want to say the average miner has knowledge enough to enjoy some of the nice things in life if he had a chance, but to think of making his already miserable life worse by taking things he has fought and died for! I don't think there is one in 10,000 that would give up this fight. No one wants to cause any suffering to other classes of people—we only want to live, too. If there is any one who thinks we have such a glorious round of pleasure, let him come and join us. I will teach him well he will be thoroughly convinced he has been deceived.

REASON OR FORCE.

The railroad executives have gone as far as could reasonably be expected to end the craftsmen's strike. Officials representing 151,224 miles have agreed to comply with President Harding's proposal to put the strikers back to work, leaving the question of seniority to be determined by the Railroad Labor Board. A minority of the executives, representing 57,222 miles, are willing to employ the strikers as far as vacancies will permit, but specifically state that they will not discharge any of their present employees to make room for the strikers. The union executives flatly reject the proposal to submit the question of seniority to the Railroad Labor Board, or to any other tribunal, on the ground that this question is not arbitral.

President Harding, it is stated, has come to the end of his resources as a mediator and will now appeal to the public. This appeal to the public, it is assumed, will be a review of the efforts that have been made to end the strike and will be preliminary to referring the question to Congress for solution by law.

It is not apparent how Congress can devise an act more equitable than the President's final suggestion. Assuming that Congress recasts the President's proposal in legal form, would the striking craftsmen, under the direction of the Big Four Brotherhoods, who seemingly have taken over the leadership of the strike, still remain obdurate? Would they still insist that seniority is not arbitral in the face of the law? The question is hypothetical, of course, but the logic of events seems to point to that development.

Such a declaration by the strikers in these circumstances obviously would be for a fight to a finish and they would enter upon such a war with public opinion against them. Heretofore, we believe, public opinion has been neutral. In any event the public has recognized the difficulties on both sides of the issue. The determination of the railroad executives to stand by the men, both old and new, who have kept the roads operating during this emergency, is elemental. In common decency no other course were possible. At the same time, the matter of seniority is a vital one for many railroad workers, though it can hardly be regarded as such for the craftsmen. But the point is that the strike has brought about a condition which must be settled in one of two ways—either by the rational process of arbitration, as has been suggested, and to which the majority of the roads agree, or by force.

If the railroad workers appeal to force rather than to reason the country is in for a harsh experience, but there can be no doubt as to the ultimate decision. In war between any special interest and the people as a whole the people necessarily must win.

Sympathy, of course, will be extended to Circuit Attorney Sideron on the loss of his private stock, but what we started out to say was, does the longevity of the private stock mystify Brother Shupp?

THE "GLIDER" MEET.

An important phase of history may be in the making at Clermont-Ferrand, France, where a "glider" meet is being conducted by the International Experimental Congress of Motorless Airplanes. The temptation to prophesy that motorless aircraft can never succeed is seriously modified by the recollection that only a few years ago it was dogmatically affirmed that no form of flying could be a success. "Can't" has become a treacherous word in science.

Mechanics like nature, has a way of moving in cycles. Otto Lilienthal, one of the earliest pioneers in aviation, held it to be a cardinal principle that flying machines must follow "the way of a bird in the air." Human knowledge could not hope to produce, in a brief space, models equal to those evolved by ages of natural selection. The success of the flat-winged airplane seemed, for a time, to refute him. The most successful "gliders," however, have been strikingly birdlike.

By an ironical circumstance, Germany has led in this line of development. Under the treaty of Versailles, Germany is denied the possession of motorless airplanes. The restriction proved to be the greatest possible incentive to the development of motorless planes. This phase of aviation has attracted but little attention in America, but an American, Edmund Allen, was leading the field at Clermont-Ferrand at last report, in the average duration of flights. Such experiments deserve encouragement. Not the least of the "glider's" virtues is its ability to land softly. The lack of it in motored airplanes has caused many a tragedy.

HUMPTY DUMPTY.

(Harding, in the Brooklyn Eagle.)

THE KU KLUX: A REPLY.

Mr. Charles Kincheloe, in a letter on this page, seeks the answer of the Post-Dispatch to several questions on the subject of the Ku Klux Klan. We are glad to answer them in their order, as follows:

1. No.
2. We base our assertions upon what is common knowledge wherever the Klan has been active in politics. In Oregon there has been a drive upon both Jews and Catholics. The testimony of mob victims, notably in Texas, that the Klan usurps powers of punishment that belong only to the courts is overwhelming.

3. Here is the nub of the whole matter. What makes the Klan an abomination to the spirit and principles of American democracy is that it appears publicly under a mask and thus eludes responsibility for whatever acts, legal or otherwise, it may commit. It is an anonymous force and therefore is irresponsible and dangerous. Its purpose is to elude legal conviction, and to further this purpose it attempts to take into membership the officials of law enforcement—Sheriffs, Prosecuting Attorneys and even Governors. Entering politics, it, of course, has power to swing its vote against law enforcement where that enforcement conflicts with its special interest. We do not undertake to say what has been or will be proven against the Klan. We shall say for the present only that the Klan's methods are devised to make proof impossible and to intimidate and prevent public officials from securing proof and conviction of its members.

4. Yes, such a bill as referred to is religious intolerance because its purpose and effect would be to wipe out the Catholic parochial schools.
5. If you mean civil allegiance, no.
6. The rituals of secret organizations do not concern the Post-Dispatch or the public except in so far as those organizations attempt to interfere with the government of the State, the enforcement of law and the civil and religious rights of citizens.

Power broadcast by the radio will run the world, declares a prophet. The historic three's must bow to this glorious fourth.

THE GAME AND THE CONSTITUTION.

Even if Missouri does not have a better Constitution as a result of the present convention in Jefferson City the prospects are that a vast improvement will be noted at the end of the season in the golf played by a considerable proportion of the delegates. This may be a consummation devoutly to be wished but there is some room for doubt that its benefits will be spread as widely throughout the State as those of a modernized Constitution.

It is complained by some of the delegates that the convention is becoming incidental to the pursuit of the little white ball. Three hours a day are spent in irksome session. The remainder of the daylight is devoted to the improvement of scores. We assume that the results of the latter pursuit are gratifying, but what of the Constitution? The amount of the taxpayers' money already spent for a new Constitution is $110,000. There is unkind speculation that the results of this expenditure are about $10,000 worth of Constitution and $100,000 worth of golf.

There is this about golf: If it is not your servant for pleasure or health it is your master for better or for worse. Golf will have no other gods before it. And to those who follow it six hours a day six days in the week, or probably seven, other pursuits are but an avocation. Undoubtedly we can have a better Constitution with golf than without. But the people of the State have deemed it of some importance that we should have a new Constitution. And nothing can be more obvious to loyal devotees of the game themselves than that to obtain such a Constitution it must be made the main issue and not a side issue to golf.

Senator Lodge, it seems, can be a high protectionist or a free trader, as the political exigencies require. Another Massachusetts Senator was equally versatile. His name was Daniel Webster.

Someone recently took a snapshot of Mr. Bryan sleeping with his mouth open. It is probably a habit.

When Mr. Busch speaks as if he had hardly expected to find liquor still being served on our ships after his exposure of the practice, he underestimates our capacity for punishment. We are to have an even better example of it within a few days, when the Senate votes on the tariff. If Grover Cleveland could wake and find out that we are still passing tariff bills despite what he said about them, his astonishment would be even greater than that of Mr. Busch.

The whole country would be glad to see St. Louis win the major league pennant, just as we all hope Job found happiness in the next life. We are not a truly bad people.

People stranded in the Arizona desert by the railroad strike will probably be enthusiastic about ocean voyages after this, even if there is an occasional storm at sea.

Now do you doubt?
K. L. KAYELL.

Wayne B. (Congress) Wheeler thinks prohibition has nothing to lose by discussion and therefore makes no objection to the Literary Digest poll. If the country resigned itself to prohibition the drys would not need Mr. Wheeler any more.

The Literary Digest poll on the bonus shows the country just about equally divided. What we all seem to feel is (1) that the bonus should be paid; (2) if we knew where we could get the money. That leaves us $0.50, which is precisely what the poll shows.

"Texas Leads in May Lynchings," says a headline in the Washington Star. And Texas probably would reply modestly that May isn't a particularly good month for lynchings in that State, either.—Kansas City Star.

From the New York World.

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE has made the discovery that there are things in the psychology of the modern boy of which he was ignorant. His disillusion came with the fiasco of his plan for a Fourth of July parade of boys with dogs at Emporia, Kan., with a prize to reward the youngster who had the largest number of canine pets in line. To the surprise of the distinguished editor and philosopher not a boy with even one dog turned out. Boys of the present day have so many new interests that going fishing, visiting the old swimming hole and even fraternizing with dogs have declined in the relative scale of importance. The modern boy inclines more to mechanical things. He fools about motor cars and tinkers with wireless telegraphy and has Boy Scout affiliations, and there are always the movies. Huck Finn would find himself a lousy number in a group of boys of this day and generation. The wonder is not that no Emporia boys were found ready to parade with their dogs but that a canny authority on boyish character should have thought they would be.

THE FUTURE'S USE FOR COAL.

FLOYD W. PARSONS in the World's Work. THE time must come, and soon, when very little coal, if any at all, will be burned raw. We must convert the heat units of the coal into gas, which is the cleanest, most convenient, and most easily controlled fuel that has so far been discovered. In the average heating operation, only two-thirds as many units are required in gaseous form as in the form of coal. There are but two forms in which the energy of coal can be economically transmitted long distances. These are gas and electricity, and each will be supreme in its own field, the first for heating and the second for power. In time gas will carry the heating load of every community, both in the home and in industry, while electricity will take care of high-temperature commercial processes, most of the lighting load, and all power requirements. It is more the fault of the public than of science or industry that coal is burned raw. The only reason gas is not used universally is because of its high price for wholesale heating. There will be no coal trucks on our streets or smoke or ashes or such needless fuel waste when the people finally understand the true situation with respect to fuel, and commence to buy heat units instead of tons of coal and cubic feet of gas. We will enter a new day in the utilization of heat energy when we eliminate the useless standards and restrictions which compel gas companies to produce a certain kind of fuel instead of making the kind and quality of gas that will produce the most heat units for the least money from the materials available. In one community the most efficient practice may be one that will produce a gas having only 100 heat units in it per cubic foot. In another section the materials and conditions may be such that the most economical gas will be one having, say, 400 or maybe 500 heat units per foot. The type of gas that is furnished consumers in any town or city should be determined by rule of reason and not rule of thumb.

WHAT DID YOU SEE TODAY?

Volunteer Reporters Tell the Post-Dispatch of the Interesting, Unusual and Often Humorous Incidents They Encounter.

If all the contributors to the What-Did-You-See department were to bring their items into the office in person, instead of using the mail, an overflow meeting in Twelfth boulevard might be necessary occasionally. The number of letters received last week was 2757, and this week they may reach the 3000 mark. If the mail handlers don't go on strike, and the editor doesn't break his glasses, all the letters will be read within a day or two after they are mailed. Today's list of incidents, writers of which will receive $1 each, is:

TUT, TUT.

I saw a man at a summer resort, where there is a river, bathing in his B. V. D.'s. Although he saw the girls he made no attempt to move out of sight.

NORMA YOUNGBLUTH, 4482A Elmbank avenue.

PAPA'S MISHAP.

A friend was telling us about taking his wife and baby out the night before. He was seized with a sneezing fit. He reached for his handkerchief, drew it, shook it out, and disclosed a pair of baby's pants-lettes.

MAKE-BELIEVE.

From my side window I saw two boys sitting in an old automobile back of a garage. From their excited conversation I learned they were going 60 miles an hour, and were hotly pursued by dry agents. Boy No. 1 was leaning over the wheel and had a strained looked on his face. Boy No. 2 shouted at the top of his voice, "Step on the gas, Bud, while I hide the bootleggin' stuff. They're gaining on us." No doubt they will grow up into respected and law abiding citizens.

MRS. BELLE POOL, 805 Trendley avenue.

SEEN BY THE WAYSIDE.

While returning from Chicago I saw in many places children using old auto casings for swings. They fastened the tires with a heavy rope to a tree branch.

JANETTE DOUGHERTY, 953 Beach avenue.

SLOW WORK.

While riding along Easton avenue I saw a man trying to change the tire on his machine without first jacking up his car.

MISS OLGA BEHRENS, 210 N. Central avenue, Clayton.

IN CARONDELET.

I saw on a Virginia avenue lawn between Malt and Haven streets the pride of "Vide Poche," a mammoth buckeye tree, 8 feet 2 inches in girth, the oldest and largest and most beautiful in our city. A florist could not fashion a bouquet more perfect or shapely.

JAMES P. KEAN, 417 N. Broadway.

A BAD START.

Sunday at half past twelve with the thermometer above 90 I saw a family of four, mixed up in a taxicab with a lot of luggage and golf clubs, get out at the Delmar avenue station to await the midday train north. They got comfortably settled for their wait when the station master came over and told them the noon train for Chicago had not gone by Delmar for several years.

MARION POLEY, 5354 Delmar avenue.

HIS COVER UP.

While on my vacation out in the country I saw a farmer cultivating his corn, and not wanting the sun to burn him, he had a top of a Ford fastened to the cultivator to serve as an umbrella.

J. DOSTAL, 3513 Nebraska avenue.

IT WOULDN'T WORK.

While changing cars at Taylor and Easton I saw a fat colored "auntie" who was industriously pushing pennies into the slot of a weighing machine. She looked perplexed and said to me, "Can you-all tell me why this little han' don't move?" I was already put in three pennies. She was still standing on the sidewalk.

MRS. L. B. BRANDON, 751 North Euclid avenue.

A MODEST GIFT.

I saw a prosperous looking woman drop a nickel into a blind man's cup and take out four pennies in change.

MARGARET HALLORAN, 3653 Cleveland avenue.

SOMETHING OR OTHER.

While waiting for a friend to attend the meeting at the Coliseum when Reed spoke I heard a boy ask, "Who is Reed?" "Oh, he is President or something big," his pal answered him. They then decided to go inside.

M. J. R., 751 North Euclid avenue.

ANCIENT HISTORY.

I saw a woman on the southeast corner of Eighth and St. Charles streets wait for a car that traveled south only. I told her the car stopped on the other side of the street. She said, "You're mistaken. 15 years ago it stopped here, and I guess it still does."

LOUIS WYMAN, 7132 Alamo avenue.

IT'S "AVE" NOW.

While riding on Page boulevard with my father I noticed the signs on the lamp posts. On one was "Page Blvd." on the next "Page Ave." on the next "Page Blvd." and on the next "Page Ave." Which is it?

L. G. STARK, 4058 Flora Place.

WITHOUT FEATHERS.

I was on a rear seat of a Laclede car going east when a man boarded the car with a gallon-can with soft tar dripping down the sides. He persisted in standing in the way of people getting on and off. A woman with a light blue silk dress on got on and her dress side swiped the can. What can the poor married man do to pay for those dresses?

THOMAS W. MURRAY, 4323 Laclede Ave.

ANYTHING ONCE.

As I was eating lunch a man entered the restaurant and ordered a lunch consisting of tomatoes, French dressing and iced tea. After the waitress left he picked up the bowl of French dressing and poured it into the iced tea.

MARGARET BARRETT, 4576 N. Market Street.

TRAFFIC NOTE.

I saw a negro riding a mule south in Ninth street. A policeman stopped him. "Don't you know this is a one way street?" he said. "Boss," replied the negro, "I see only going one way."

WAYMAN BRADSHAW, PENNY-SQUEEZERS.

I saw two ladies enter a restaurant, order a cup of coffee with two spoons and divide a sandwich they took from a purse. After eating the sandwich and sipping the coffee they left to catch a street car.

W. B. TAYLOR, 1623 Lafayette Avenue.

GOING DOWN.

I was eating lunch in a cafeteria the other day and chanced to sit near the cashier's desk. Along came a girl with quite a heavily loaded tray on which a large slice of watermelon held a prominent position. She suddenly dropped the tray, and in an effort to dodge its contents stepped on the watermelon and then followed a grand crash of tray and girl.

H. LIEBEN, 515 Olive street.

A DOSE OF IRON.

We had an 8-year-old persimmon tree which had not born fruit until last year. Then I heard the driving nails in the tree trunk would cause it to bear. I drove nails in it early in the spring. That year the tree was loaded with persimmons.

MILTON CLANTON, Steelville, Mo.

MORE LIKE AN OLD LADY.

While standing on the rear porch just before dark I saw a young lady in the kitchen strike a match and get upon a chair to light the electric lamp.

MRS. CLARENCE ARMSTRONG, 4117 Castleman avenue.

THIS WICKED WORLD.

A woman sat down beside me in the car, evidently her first ride. She counted the change the conductor gave her, among which was a token. "This world is full of crooked people. Every conductor gave me a suspender button for a dime." She started towards the conductor when I explained to her the use of the

FABLES for the FAIR

THIRTY-DAY MATRIMONY

By Marguerite Moores Marshall

MORAL—Life Is Too Short to Train ONE Husband Properly—Why Take on More Than One.

AN enterprising and energetic young woman in Chicago—Where they're always doing something to add to the gaiety of the town—Has reduced this husband-exchanging business to a system. Mrs. Dora Boob Thinks that a husband, like a note, should run 30 days. And that the same husband should not be subject to renewal. "People keep their husbands 'too long,'" Dora told the Court of Domestic Relations. "My rule is to keep 'em 30 days and return 'em."

"Just as it says on the marriage license!"

"Then—get a new husband and a new license."

"It's the only way to keep the peace."

And Dora, they do say, has been playing her system for all it's worth. So that husbands of Dora are scattered over the landscape "most anywhere between New York and Wyoming."

Now, far be it from me or any other woman to deny That there are points about Dora Boob's matrimonial time schedule, it obviously eliminates monotony from married life; It preserves one from ever becoming "an old married woman"—Since, every 30 days, one is newly married; It keeps the men on the jump, and diffuses the area of domestic bliss—Giving a share of it to 12 husbands a year, provided Dora, or any imitator, keeps up her marrying average. But, in addition to objections from the courts Which poor Dora is now encountering, And which would be now anywhere, even in this land of fairly free divorce, And home of brave second, third, fourth and fifth marriages—In addition, I repeat, to the legal liabilities of 30-day matrimony, The practical drawbacks outweigh the advantages.

Stop and think if it isn't so. A husband is like a horse—he is only useful when he has been broken in. And what is the point in getting him all properly broken in only in the kindergarten stage. And then passing him up, and beginning again with a new colt? For practically every job The trained worker is preferred to the inexperienced. No business man deliberately fires

Stuffed Eggs With Salmon

MAKE a regular pink salmon salad with the chopped celery, yolks of eggs and mayonnaise. Take as many eggs as desired, put them into boiling water and let stand for 15 minutes. Remove shells, cut a slice off the top and bottom (the latter to make it stand), then take out the yolks and fill the whites with salad. Serve in lettuce leaves and over all pour mayonnaise.

PINK SALMON COCKTAIL

FLAKE 1-pound can of pink salmon and green peas and skin. Place in 8 cocktail glasses, pour over each 1 tablespoonful of following dressing: serve with slice of lemon and water. Dressing: One tablespoon horseradish, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons tomato catsup, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 dash of tabasco, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Very appetizing. Will serve eight persons.

Love Letters That Made History

by JOSEPH KAYE

Benjamin Franklin and Mme. Helvetius

OUR Ben Franklin was not a passionate lover; his epistles do not burn with the pompous phrases of a Napoleon in love or the fine imagery of a Byron—his sense of humor saved him from any extremes. Thus a love-letter to a lady who had won his heart forms more entertaining than romantic reading.

The lady in question was Madame Helvetius, widow of a French philosopher. Franklin's wife, "Derby," had gone to her rest after a satisfying span of years and Franklin's heart went out to the philosopher's widow—as it had gone out to some others in the same period. He wrote to her:

"Mortified by the barbarous resolution pronounced by you so positively yesterday evening, that you would remain single for the rest of your life as a compliment due to the memory of your husband, I retired to my chamber. Throwing myself upon the bed I dreamt that I was dead and was transported to the Elysian fields."

"I was asked whether I wished to see any persons in particular and I replied that I wished to see the philosophers."

"There are two who live here at hand in this garden."

"Who are they?"

"Socrates and Helvetius."

"I esteem them both highly, but let me see Helvetius first because I understand a little French and not a word of Greek."

"I was conducted to him; he received me with much courtesy, having known me, he said, some time ago. He asked me a thousand questions relative to the war, to the present state of religion, of liberty, of the government in France. I inquired, then, said I, 'after your dear friend, Mme. Helvetius; yet she loves you exceedingly; I was in her company not more than an hour ago.'

"Ah," said he, "you ask me to recur to my past happiness which ought to be forgotten in order to be happy here. For many years I could think of nothing but her, though at length I am consoled. I have taken another wife, the most like her I could find; she is not, indeed, altogether so handsome but she has a great fund of wit and good sense; and her whole study is to please me. She is at this moment gone to fetch the best nectar and ambrosia to regale me."

"As he finished these words the new Mme. Helvetius entered with the nectar and I recognized her immediately as my former friend. Mrs. Franklin, I exclaimed, but she answered me coldly:

"I was a good wife to you for 43 years and four months, nearly half a century; let that content you. I have formed a new connection here which will last me to eternity."

"Indignant at this refusal of my Eurymedea I resolved to quit those ungrateful shades and return to the good world again, to the sun and you! Here I am! let us average ourselves!"

FUNERAL OF A CIGARETTE

By Wm. A. McKeever

CHAPTER XXVII

Love Wins

THERE was a sound of muffled drums and an air of certain city while a company of high school cadets swung into line to perform the last sad rites over the remains of a departed child. In lowered voice the command was given, the pallbearers lifted the black casket, and while a dirge was played by the cadet band the procession moved out for the final obsequies.

At a secluded place the company suddenly halted, and gently placed upon a funeral pyre the shriveled remains of a cigarette.

And, while in form of a mock funeral, these boys of old certain city high school were parting company with their boon companions, the significant fact appeared that they were in deepest earnest. They were voting a permanent abandonment of the "rag." A basket was passed along the line and therein was deposited the "makins" from every pocket. There was to be a general cleanup. After a lively discussion it was voted "not to permit a member who broke his anti-tobacco vow to hold any office in his class or his school or to play on any athletic team."

Two weeks later I was walking down the street near this high school of cadet anti-cigaretists. A big, husky sophomore drew up. "How's school?" I asked. "Nothing doing. They put me off the team for smoking cigarettes." "That's the way," I said. "But you bet I have now cut it out for good," he added.

There are some interesting lessons for the parents and teachers of America in the strange performance of these high school cadets. The first is that the most genuine sort of reform among boys is self-directed reform. In the usual case we try to whip the boys into being good, and we fail. They simply refuse to be forced. But once they deliberate among themselves and solemnly decree their own reformation, we unto that member who dares break away from the rule. His punishment is sure and swift.

The forces of true reformation are within the human heart and mind. We, the teachers of the young, must discover these hidden powers of self-control, must help the young to form the connecting link between desire and execution, and thus prepare the way for a clean, self-corrective and self-reliant society among the growing generation.

This will last all our lives, yours and mine. After all, we've only been cheated out of a few weeks."

"It seemed a lifetime," she told him, with a sigh. "John, do you remember when I went to London to buy my frocks?"

"And I let you come home and never met you," he added, with quick remorse.

There was such a note of pain in his voice that she did not ask the question that had been on her lips. After all, let the past go. What did anything matter now that the future was theirs?

John Harden never rebuilt Manor Dyke. He sold it just as it stood after that fatal night, and Little Helpton bought it. Things never last—he stopped her with his lips on hers.

The uncharitable said that of course the Hardens couldn't very well live in the village after all that had happened; that they were not at all surprised that they couldn't stay. It was quite the best thing they could do to leave.

"But what has happened, exactly?" Mrs. Ashford asked interestedly. "I'm afraid I must be very out-of-date, because I haven't heard."

There was an uncomfortable silence. The scandal mongers of Little Helpton were really rather afraid of the vicar's wife, and the subject was hurriedly changed.

But that night Mrs. Ashford went into her husband's study where he was writing his Sunday sermon, and said anxiously:

"Tom, dear, was there really any truth in the fact that Molly and that poor young Wharton were—she stopped, not liking to go on."

The vicar looked up from his writing.

"My dear," he said staunchly, "it's no use asking me. I'm no scandal-monger, thank heaven! And anyway, the poor boy is dead, so what does it matter?"

CHAPTER XXVII

Love Wins

Molly was packing the last box in readiness for her second honeymoon, as the boys insisted on calling it. A frail Molly she looked still, but so happy that her mother sighed and thought of her own youth and shed more tears and drank many cups of strong tea.

"I can't imagine what you want so many frocks for," Ned said, as he hauled on the last strap, red-faced and breathless. "As if anyone will notice what you wear!"

"John will," Molly said.

She looked across to where her husband was complacently surveying his own bulging suitcase.

He met her eyes and smiled.

"You might take that box down stairs out of the way," he said to Ned. "It's the last I think, and he waited till the door had closed, then he went over to Molly and took her in his arms.

"I haven't had you to myself for a minute all day. I wish we were going tonight instead of tomorrow."

She rubbed her cheek against his sleeve.

"So do I, but it's not very long, and then—she put her arms around his neck—"oh, I'm so happy!"—said, with a sigh of utter contentment.

"And you love me really and truly?" he asked.

"Really and truly—and you?"

"More than my life." The door reopened abruptly and Ned thrust a head round which he hurriedly withdrew again. They heard him laughing as he went clattering downstairs.

Molly blushed.

"Oh, he must have seen us!" she protested.

"Surely I can kiss my wife, if I like," Harden said with dignity.

"My wife—oh, Molly, it's too good to be true, dear!"

She lifted his hand to her cheek.

"But it is true all the same," she said, "and I'm glad—so glad!"

THE END.

HABITS

That Mar Beauty

By Doris Doscher

A STAMMER of the speech is a bad habit that often seriously affects contentment of mind. Besides, it is a social disgrace, for it leaves its traces in marring the beauty of the face, especially the mouth.

In only one case in a hundred do we find any real physical defect of tongue or throat that causes stammering. In all other cases it is due to lack of mental control of the vocal organs. In most cases it is either that the stammerer thinks so that words do not readily follow the line of thought, or the subject is excessively nervous and loses control of the power of speech.

But take heart! There are on record many cases of fluent orators who in their early career were gibed for their habit of stammering. This clearly proves they had not as yet gained full control of their powers, but by persistent effort and will power were able to reverse a handicap.

It is a strange thing that this habit of stammering is easily acquired by the repetition of such words as "and" or "don't" you know" and similar phrases. You repeat them every time you are at work or study and finally you stutter over every sentence you speak.

The fact that excessive nervousness or a severe shock will paralyze the muscles of the throat for a time shows how necessary it is for a person who is subject to stammering to try and put the body in such physical perfection that nervousness naturally disappears. If you only stutter when you are embarrassed, it is easy for you to overcome it. A little time devoted to the study of the proper thing to say and do at the proper time, puts one at one's ease. But best of all is the desire to put the other person at ease, for then one is able to control self, the tongue loosens and speech flows fluently.

I have known many a girl who has been perfectly wrecked at a social function because she stammered and stuttered, thinking that you are incurable. You have no one to blame but yourself, as these simple rules, if persistently followed, will help you overcome stammering.

Miss Charlotte Sharron of London, now at the age of 39 years, is an expert typist.

THE CLAUSONS

By Ruby M. Ayers

CLAUSON stepped from his roadster and held out his hand to Miss Rickson. But with a hand on either side of the opening she swung herself down, landed softly, gave him a warm, hard, little fist and a thank you almost gruff, and was up the steps of her boarding house. The house itself looked as if it had measles and Clauson drove off thinking what a frightful life Miss Rickson lived—his stenographer by day and a tenant of a scared-looking boarding house by night. And what a brick she was—brown, rosy, businesslike little brick. A woman, too. Eyes that were deep with what could be tenderness.

"None of that," said Clauson, and turned into his own street.

He put up his car, walked the half block to his apartment and while he waited for the elevator—he thought which he had kept in the background abruptly enveloped him, seemed to rush at him from outside. Suppose Miss Rickson were waiting for him up in fourth-floor front? Romance of a sweetness almost forgotten might be possible with Miss Rickson. . . .

He hurried down the tiled hall to his own door, burst in, shouted: "Hello, Jeph!"

He was genuinely shocked at himself. He wanted to make amends by a tremendous homecoming such as he had, before now, carried off when he was too tired to mean it.

"Hello, darling," she said.

He had a swift look at the picture which had greeted him so many nights. The brownish room, the heaped-up table—everything Jeph did seemed to take so much cloth or wool or whatever it was—and of Jeph herself in a street dress busy at Lord knew what.

She was measuring something. She put up her face to be kissed, kissed him, smiled absently, said without looking at him:

"They sent me up some that the month has been in."

"Oh, they did, did they?" said Clauson grimly.

He made his preparations for dinner and as he came up the passage he sniffed distastefully at an odor—wax, rubber, gravity—the odor of home. The familiarity of the pictures on the passage walls oppressed him—signed photographs, a percola. El Capitan. A little song was pecked at twice by the birds, trying vainly to "dish it"—in the kitchen. Jeph said "Ready, darling!" and came toward him picking threads from her skirt.

They went down the passage. He slipped his arm about her. She laid her hand under hers. And when they sat at table Clauson looked at her across the soup and asked:

"Did I have my arm around you—just now, when we came down the passage?"

"Why, yes, didn't you?" she said.

"Yes, I think you did, why?"

"Nothing," said Clauson. "I just wondered."

From time to time, at dinner, he looked at her stealthily. Fifteen years they had had together. There were no children. Suppose there should be 25, 35 years more. And he loved each other. But heavens above them both, how dull they were.

"I think I'll send that moth-eaten stuff straight back to them," said Jeph. "Wouldn't you, dear?"

"I certainly would, darling," said Clauson.

He thought of the sacrifice of using holy words in that unthinking fashion. He thought of the absurdity of assenting like a sheep to something which he knew nothing whatever about. He thought of Miss Rickson—what if some morning she should bring in his letters and say, "There, dear," with that good little way of dipping her head and turning it sideways without turning her eyes.

They considered the theater and gave up going. They considered telephoning for somebody to come in and make up a table and gave that up, too. Clauson built a fire and smoked and Jeph read aloud. Then they sat talking. Once they disagreed on the ethics of a bit of gossip and had a spirited 15 minutes. Jeph was quite like Jeph when she argued—she had so gentle an exasperation. When they sat silent Clauson thought of Miss Rickson's restful way of rejoicing. "Exactly" to all his opinions. He suddenly imagined her saying "Exactly, dear," imagined her sitting here beside him, caught the zest, the laughter, the thrill which talk with her could conceivably hold. He obediently on that he halted his meditations.

He looked thoughtfully at Jeph. Jeph was responsive, she had humor, she could be amusing. But he was so used to her. Her hands, that gesture to her hair, her absent look, her little crooked yawns. Not a surprise, not even a variation. She was Jeph forever.

At 9 Clauson rose and wound the

"I wish you wouldn't call me 'darling' when you don't mean it," she said. They considered the clock and observed as usual that she must have it regulated.

"I've heard you say that oceans of times, dear," Jeph remarked—also as usual.

"Dear" again. What a continual farce! And he wished she wouldn't always say "oceans." What a rotten go everything was. How had he got himself into this miserable little jail of a life, full of clocks and keys and kettles. What did any unfounded thing matter? No wonder everybody was tired of everybody else.

He faced about and said abruptly, "I'm going out for a little while, Jeph."

"Well, where on earth are you going?" she inevitably asked.

"To take a turn around a block or two. I'm seedy. I'm seedy," said he, and went.

Ten minutes later he was back and at the look in his eye Jeph said: "Why, darling! Is anything the matter?"

"I wish you wouldn't call me 'darling' when you don't mean it," he burst out, and added, "beg pardon. Yes, something is the matter. I met Dibble down in the office. He gave me the tip that this building is to be pulled down."

"Pulled down?" she repeated, and he wished irritably that she would not let herself look so surprised—Jeph always did that. He had seen her do it innumerable times over nothing.

"Yes, pulled down," he repeated sharply. "We'll all have to get out by fall. Dibble heard it pretty straight. Says he's got his eye on a flat and he's going to get out of here now and sublet till his lease runs out."

"Arthur," said Jeph absently, "do you think we could get one of those bungalows in the new addition? If we only could—let's look tomorrow, dearest, and if we can get one, let's move now."

"But I don't want to move at all," said Clauson bitterly. "I like this place. I'm used to it. What right has he got to turn us out?"

"I saw one of them last week," Jeph went on absently. "Darling little cupboards and such oceans of closets."

"I don't want to move at all," Clauson repeated doggedly. "I'm used to this place. . . ."

His eye rested on the deep fire place that never smoked, on the familiar brown tile, on the shelves that could be reached from his chair.

"Well, but darling," Jeph was beginning. A thousand times had he seen her settle down with the same gentle exasperation to an argument.

"I'm going to bed," said Clauson; and went.

Next day they drove out to look at the bungalows in the new addition. It had been a terrible day at the office, appointments broken.

was—and still is—a remarkable man. Although a full-blooded Indian of one of the California mission tribes, he is a college graduate and, what is rather unusual in a professional ballplayer, an exceedingly well informed lover of art and he has a keen wit. His tribal name was Tortes. One day a curious person asked him why he had taken the name of John Meyers.

"It sounds so Indian," said Meyers.
On another occasion a friend invited Meyers to tell him what his favorite pictures were.

"There are two that I particularly like," said the brawny Indian.
"One is Abbey's mural painting, 'The Quest of The Holy Grail,' on the walls of the Boston Public Library. Whenever I'm in Boston I go to see it. And the other is that picture called 'Custer's Last Stand.'"

"Surely you don't mean that atrocious chromo showing a lot of white cavalymen being killed and scalped—that thing which some harvesting company out West used to give away as an advertisement?"

That's the identical one," said Meyers.

"But why, in the name of goodness, should you favor that daub?"

"I'll tell you why," said Meyers. "It's the only picture done by a white man that I ever saw where my crowd is getting as good as an even break."

All details of the scale were proved in principle by both sides
fore the drafting of a tentative understanding which is described by both sides as the en-wedge in the soft coal strike began 26 weeks ago. Separate ings of miners and operators held this morning for voting approval.
"The strike is now over,"
Joseph Purgione, an operator served on the subcommittee.
To Return at Same Scale
In brief, the settlement provides that the miners shall be return-work at the same scale of that was in effect when they
on strike; the new contract
